

Caveat: These communications are informative teaching instructions for those who seek to increase their understanding of themselves and the magnitude of the future lying before us all. These lectures are not of a religious nature but rather deal with the science of human potential and evolution. This document is a direct transcription from the original recording. Although it has been checked for obvious errors, it has not been finally edited.

Copyright © 2012 Clyde Trepanier

October 12, 1959

Teacher: May the Peace of the infinite one rest upon the hearts of each of you now. My beloved friends, I greet you in love and peace.

What is it, beloved ones, that gnaws at the heart of man, that drives him ever onward, seeking and searching? Within the heart of every man burns this desire. Man does not always know or realize what this desire is, what this urge within him is seeking, and this urge is turned in many directions by various individuals. Some direct it in a search of wealth. Others in the search of pleasure. Others for knowledge, but this—direct it as you may—is the same spark that burns within each of you. It is that inner urge to know the truth, to know more of life.

Man does not recognize this spark that drives him onward for what it is. It is something that he must release, but he does not always direct it wisely. In order for man to grow, he must release these energies and use them wisely to bring him knowledge and wisdom and spiritual understanding. Man, if he is to have spiritual understanding, must have understanding and knowledge of many things. Spirituality is not denoted by one who claims to have great knowledge of a great being that rules and controls all things. A truly evolved spiritual being will have great knowledge of all things, for all things are spiritual in nature.

The great scientist of the universe must be a spiritual man. He must have great knowledge of the universe about him. He must have an understanding of what causes nature to function as she does. To become a true spiritual being, requires eons of time spent in studying and searching for the true answers to nature's function. Earth man has become so involved in his own small circle of function that he does not see. He does not see the things that are taking place before his very eyes.

While Earth man is endangering the population of his planet, poisoning its people, bringing to them great miseries, there lies within his reach great powers, great resources, that could eliminate all of those things and supply for man abundance of power, of energy, to be used for the good of all mankind at a cost of almost nothing. Earth science today realizes and knows the dangers of the powers with which they are now working. Still they insist that these powers must be used. They have been told that there are powers, energies to be obtained that are completely safe, but they heed not. Why is this, my friends? Could it be for selfish reasons? Could it be that certain interests see their power crumbling through the introduction of certain improvements upon planet Earth? Could this be, my friends? I leave this for your decision.

If people of Earth were to be told the things that have been rejected from us by the powers that be upon planet Earth, I wonder would they believe? I fear they would not. Earth people have been lulled into a deep sleep of contentment. They are content to let someone else think for them, guide them and as they believe, protect them. One of your poets once said, "O what fools we mortals be." Sometimes I wonder if perhaps he may have been right. Yet man is free to choose and no one can force him to choose rightly or wrongly. He will choose as he will.

Now, my friends, I have said enough. May the love, Peace and the understanding of the one great spirit of creation rest in the hearts of each of you this night. ❀