Yaum: Good evening, my friends.

Once more it is my pleasure to be a guest in this household. I hope I am welcome.

Questioner: Yes.

Yaum: Thank you.

What shall we talk about tonight, my friends? Do you have a subject that you would prefer to talk about? Your hour is rather late so I will not stay with you too long, Questioner: Did you hear our conversation tonight, Yaum?

Yaum: Yes, I have been among you for some time, although most of you were not aware of my presence.

Questioner: Then would you tell us if our version or interpretation of creation is correct?

Yaum: Yes, I think you covered this subject fairly well. Or course, there are many details that we could go into if you like. Man, in his original state, according to my understanding—and this, my friends, is my understanding, I do not ask you to accept what I say, but take it into your own heart and weigh it well. I can only give to you what my understanding is, and what I can accept at my present level of understanding as truth.

Questioner: Since you think that we covered the subject of creation fairly well in so short a time, would it be better to discuss the powers of man?

Yaum: If you would prefer to discuss the powers contained within man, and what you refer to as mind. I shall attempt to share with you my understanding.

Man is first a spiritual being. What you now see and experience, perhaps this will be a little hard for you to accept, but the existence or the plane of life in which you now exist, is perhaps the greatest dream world you will ever experience, for you are truly living in a make believe world or existence. For what you are experiencing here at this moment, and every moment of your existence here, is but a creation of your own mind, and it is not real at all. You are not experiencing man in his true expression, but man as you have created him in your mind.

The mind of man is all powerful. It contains power far beyond what any of you could possibly conceive of, and I am speaking now only from my own experience, and I am sure that mind goes far beyond my concept. I would prefer to refer to this as consciousness. To me this is a better word, for man is pure consciousness in his purest form, and man can be, and have what he can expand his consciousness to create for him.

As you came into this dream world in which you now live, you lost all memory of your past experience, so far as your present consciousness is concerned. If you, my friends, could awaken yourselves enough to bring back into your consciousness some of your past experiences, you would suddenly realize that this is only a dream. But it is necessary for some of us to experience these dreams, therefore, we find ourselves in situations such as this. Now, it may be quite difficult for you to accept this, but I am sure that if you would consult any Master, either upon your plane here or any other plane of life, he would agree with me.

On some levels of life where man is more conscious of the power contained within himself, of the power of what you call the mind, he finds that he is able to bring into creation his every desire, his every need through his mind. By a little concentration, he brings into being that which he desires. All problems that might arise are solved in the same manner. You see my friends how simple it is?

Questioner: It doesn't seem simple to us, it seems very difficult.

Yaum: Yes, my friends I realize this, and that is why we have talked so much about consciousness, about expanding your consciousness, opening it up to take in more and more. Now the fact that you are living in what I refer to as a dream world, does not mean that in the same dream world you cannot expand your consciousness to bring into being that which you desire.

You see there is no need for lack, or sickness, or racial problems, and all of these things if man would but expand his consciousness—expand it out.

But man must know, he must know that these things are possible, that they are within his rights. The mistake that so many of your people make, is that they believe some of these things. They say they have faith, but this is not quite enough. They have to know. It is necessary for man, if he is to really demonstrate, to widen out his consciousness to include these powers, he must bring into his being a knowing, for as soon as you have a little bit of doubt, then you start dreaming.

Questioner: Then when we begin to know the true reality of our sonship then this dream world becomes less and less real and we begin to know the true reality, is that right?

Yaum: That is right. As your knowing increases the dream world fades away and you begin to see the reality of things, to see beyond all of this, you begin to see into the reality of man, for man is truly a great being.

Questioner: Excuse me again, then we would be getting back to that state that we spoke of this evening, where we knew we were true creators before we started experimenting on our own and now we are getting back into that true state?

Yaum: We are trying, we are trying! As we expand this consciousness we will get there. But, my friends, we seem to be afraid to expand our consciousness. We are afraid that it might not be so. But let us hold our heads high and declare ourselves, let us declare our rightful place in creation.

You know, I think your peoples make a great mistake when they bow their heads in prayer. When we pray, my friends, let us hold our heads high, look up and out—not up to our creator, but out from our creator, for we are the creator.

You see, Earth people are battling a great race consciousness that tells them they are limited, they cannot do this, they cannot do that. They must be sick. They must be poor. My friends, as long as you accept this as being the truth that is exactly what they will have, for man is exactly what he can conceive of, what he can be conscious of. You, my friends, all of you, have the power to roam the Universe at will. You do not need a vehicle to travel in. But you have through the centuries, told yourselves that you are controlled by a physical body. But you see man has the power to cast this body aside and travel the universe if he believes he can, or if he knows he can, and he has also the power to come back and take it up and use it again, if he cares to.

And too, my friends, you do not need words to communicate. Man needs to learn to use the mind that he has. Yours is the only planet in your system where they bother to use words to communicate and when you can convey an idea to another person by thought, he clearly understands you. You do not get involved in interpretation of words. So often in using words for communication Man has great difficulty in understanding what another is trying to convey to him. Does this give you some idea of what power man contains?

Questioner: Yes, thank you.

Yaum: Then do not limit yourself for you have great powers, much more than you could possibly conceive of, at this time.

Now, my friends the hour is late I do not wish to bore you. It has been my pleasure and my joy to be once more in your presence. I should like to thank the members of this household for accepting me again, and I wish to extend to each of you, my very deepest love, blessings and my understanding. It has been my pleasure, my friends.

Goodnight. ✨
