These lectures are not of a religious nature but rather deal with the science of human potential and evolution. This document is a direct transcription from the original recording. Hatton: I greet you, my beloved friends, in the love and the light of the infinite creator, I am Hatton.

Beloved friends, we have this night established here a field of light surrounding you. This light is a cosmic energy that should bring to each of you a feeling of well being, and if each of you will open your hearts and your minds—visualize this great energy—take it into your being—direct it through every cell, every fiber of your being—direct it into your blood system and allow it to flow, you can receive a great deal of benefit both physically and mentally. This will remain throughout my dissertation, so take full advantage of it.

There is among Earth mankind, generally speaking, a great questions as to why man is here, and as to what man might be. Some give great thought to these questions while others pass it off lightly, but man, sooner or later, must come to the realization of what he is, and why he is here, the reason for life. Man must sooner or later come to the realization that he is but an extension of the consciousness of the one great being, whom you call your God. That this extension has taken on an individuality and is expressing, experiencing and following a path that will take him through experience after experience and eventually return him to his source. He must realize that his path can be short, or it can be very long, depending upon man as the individual.

As man travels these corridors of time, he quickly learns that responsibilities are placed upon his shoulders. He also learns, and sometimes not so quickly, that when these responsibilities are not met, the weight of them grows heavier and heavier, and he sinks deeper and deeper until he comes to the realization that he must face life. He must face his responsibilities, he must learn to go with life. Earth man is at such a point. He must learn to face responsibilities that are upon his shoulders, the responsibility to his creator and to his fellow man. He must learn that he does not live for himself alone. His brother is also his responsibility. When this realization is reached by enough people, conditions will begin to change. Man's load will be lightened. He shall find within him a great peace which he has not known before. All life shall take on a new look to him. Man does not find peace within himself until he reaches this realization and then does something about it.

If a man gaineth great wealth and has not peace within himself, he has nothing. Man does not find peace in the material. He finds it only when he has made this peace with his creator and his surroundings, and this can be found wherever you are. We hope it shall be found by great numbers of Earth people soon. Each man, each woman, must sooner or later return to their source. Spiritual understanding must be gained in order to do this, but each must find his own, and when enough Earth people have found themselves and united their efforts, planet Earth shall be a new planet.

It shall be able to take its place in the Brotherhood of Mankind in this system, and life will have taken on an entirely new phase.

Beloved friends, I hope each of you have taken advantage of what we have brought you tonight. May each of you have received great benefits from this great energy which comes from the source of all energy. And now I must leave you, beloved friends.

My love and my blessings I leave with you.

I am Hatton. ☸
