Zalhem: I greet you, my children, and I bless you. I am Zalhem.

You have traveled the long corridors of time, you have experienced much in these travels. There has been much to comprehend. Many of your people have comprehended very little, others have grasped more. A few have been able to grasp much.

You are drawing to the close of an Age, an Age of Ages. The Age which is now closing has been an Age where man was given the knowledge of "Peace on Earth and good will to man." The knowledge of brotherly love and how to attain these things, yet the masses have comprehended little, if any, of the teachings. A few have been able to comprehend much more, a very, very few have been able to comprehend it in its fullness. Man, due to his past experiences has not been able to comprehend. His subconscious, so to speak, has been so filled with things that do not fit into the picture of brotherly love, of peace and goodwill that he has not been able to comprehend, to apply this to his living and to his thinking. This has limited man in his capacity to comprehend.

In the new Age man will be able to comprehend the fullness of these teachings and be able to apply them in his thinking and in his actions. First they must be predominant in his thinking for before action there must be thought. There can be no action without thought. Mind is man and without it man would not be. I said that this would be the Age of Ages which will be the time at the change of this Age when the Book of Life will be opened to man, when the resurrection will take place. Not the resurrection as is believed by many of your people where the dead shall rise up from the grave but rather a resurrection of man's past experiences where the Book of Life, his life, her life, will be opened to them and they shall read and they shall judge their accomplishments. They shall see how they have profited or not profited by their experiences that took place as they traveled these corridors of time. They will be the judge of themselves, they will know at that time where they stand. No one can judge another. Each must draw his judgment upon himself just as one cannot forgive another of what you call sin. Only man himself can do this and only man himself can make the restitution's that are necessary for this forgiveness. Each individual soul is responsible for his or her own actions whatever they might be and only that soul can right the wrong that he may have done. Only that soul is responsible for his own progress as he travels the corridors of time.

There are many concepts among your religious organizations, many beliefs, but what one believes does not alter the law. Whether you believe a thing or do not believe does not alter the law and everyone follows the law. For instance reincarnation is much debated among your people but whether one believes in it or does not believe in it, makes no difference. If reincarnation is the law then you will follow it whether you believe in it or not to the letter and this applies to all of the laws of the universe. There are no exceptions.

So, my friends, be prepared when the time comes to read your own Book of Life and to make that judgment. It will come as a surprise to many: it should not be a surprise to any of you. That time, my beloved, is very, very close. The cosmic clock is approaching the hour. I do not mean by that that it will be tomorrow or next week in your time but even in your time it is not far off.

To each of you I extend my most sincere blessings. May each of you grow rapidly in your search for truth and may your Book of Life be one that you can read and rejoice. I extend my love to each of you and I call upon the Great Ones, the Ones who are beyond your comprehension, to shower forth their blessing and their love upon each of you this night.

Peace, Peace, Peace. ✿
