

Caveat: These communications are informative teaching instructions for those who seek to increase their understanding of themselves and the magnitude of the future lying before us all. These lectures are not of a religious nature but rather deal with the science of human potential and evolution. This document is a direct transcription from the original recording. Although it has been checked for obvious errors, it has not been finally edited.

Copyright © 2012 Clyde Trepanier

September 28, 1961

Master Teacher: Peace, my beloved children.

I come to you tonight grateful for the opportunity to be with you, and to speak with you.

Today, you are living in a time of great events for your planet. The opportunity to serve Mankind has never been greater in your civilization. Our hope is that many of you shall dedicate yourselves to this service, to serve your humanity in every way possible, forgetting self, and being ever mindful that man was created as one, and man's true nature is to serve, for only through service does man experience and grow.

To those who believe their growth will come by withdrawing from life—those who believe they can reach great spiritual understanding in this manner—there are many in your civilization today and in centuries past who have spent long periods in withdrawal from life, expecting to reach great heights in their spiritual understanding. But man was created to live, to experience and to serve, and man will only grow through experience of service.

Great events portend in the near future for your planet and your civilization. In a few short years, changes shall come about that to most of your civilization would be inconceivable, and within months events will occur that will have a great influence in the future of your civilization and its destiny.

But your civilization can have a great influence on this destiny if it will but awaken to a realization that it must choose a path of service, a path where understanding shall arise in the hearts of men.

It is our hope that in the next few months some of you who are seeking understanding and truth shall begin to find yourselves, and we are going to do everything in our power to help those of you who are sincere in this search.

For man to find himself must go deep within, for there he will find, and there only will he find his true being. I say to you, beloved ones, your true being, at your present level of understanding is inconceivable to you, yes, completely inconceivable. For so great is man in his true reality, that it is almost inconceivable to those of great understanding. For, beloved ones, you are all things, you are all things. Can you conceive of being all things, all things of creation, of all creation?

Bear this in mind as you move along your path in your search for truth, and soon you will begin to make great discoveries from within when you begin to get a slight glimpse of who and what you are. Man must come to the realization of the greatness of himself, and yet he must come into the realization of selflessness of himself. Ponder this well, beloved ones, for it has great meaning, and the day will come in the not too far distant future, if your search is sincere, when the true realization of what I have just said will dawn upon you. And as this begins to dawn in your consciousness, a whole new horizon shall unfold before you, and you will be awed of its greatness.

Start to cultivate within yourself a great awareness, aware of every cell of your body, aware of your very actions, your every thought and your every movement. In your silence become aware of this inner voice, the real part of you or perhaps what you call God, and in time you will find great revelations coming from this voice, from the true you. And if you are humble, grateful and sincere, a great awakening shall begin to take place within you, and you shall find yourself upon a path that leads ever outward to greater and greater horizons, horizons that go on and on, that seem never ending.

In my search for truth, I have never yet found the end of these horizons, they extend onward and outward. Is this not, beloved ones, something great to look forward to, something great to aspire to? When these realizations begin to dawn in your heart, things of the past will seem unimportant, and no more will you look back, for man never grows by looking backward. Let the past dead bury its dead. Look ever forward outward, never backward, for he who looks back, falters.

My beloved children, if each of you will now relax, try to establish an attitude of love, completely relaxed as a child would relax in the arms of its mother, for I am going to leave this instrument for a moment, and I shall pass among you. I shall stand before each of you, and it shall be my pleasure to invoke a special blessing upon each of you. Now, please, beloved ones, do not be tense, do not try to feel something, but just relax—let go—allow me.

(A blessing was received by each one.)

My children, thrice be ye blest. Receive ye now the love, the blessings of our Brotherhood.

So be it. So be it. So be it. ♣