Teacher: My greetings to you, my beloved brothers and sisters.

I was sitting in my Earth home a short time ago, when your great friend, Anthon, came to me and asked if I would like to again say a few words to you tonight. So I agreed to do so. I was sitting there prior to his arrival contemplating how we could better serve the people of Earth, and how in some way we might be able to bring to them a truer and greater meaning of the occasion of which you are about to celebrate.

As we observe your people preparing for this occasion and realize how long these celebrations have gone on, it rather amazes us how few of your people really understand the true meaning of the birth of Christ. To many we realize it is only an opportunity to celebrate, but there are many others who take this occasion quite seriously, yet they do not understand the meaning or the symbolologies behind it. They are more or less celebrating the birth of an individual, much as you would a great hero, or a greatly admired leader of your civilization. They do not really understand the meaning of Christ, what Christ is and represents. I suspect that a great majority of your clergymen who are teaching their flocks do not truly understand either.

If only they would convey to their people that the true symbology of this is the Christ child being born in the hearts of man himself. Christ means and represents love. Therefore, in order for man to have this salvation or saving, which your clergymen speak of, he must have born in his heart this love, this Christ-child. And it can only be born in man as a child, representing the beginning of this love in the heart of man. Then it must grow and mature through experience, by using this love, cultivating it and letting it grow to maturity, where you truly understand love, truly know what it is all about.

This is the lesson for this civilization in this age. This is why it was brought in such a manner at the beginning of this age, hoping that by the end of the age it would have grown to maturity in your civilization. However, this has not been the case in the majority. Therefore, many in your civilization will find it necessary to pass again through this classroom. It has not been made clear by your organized religions. They have rather spent more of their time in organizational work and in building temples to their glory, rather than building temples in men to His glory.

As you go about in spreading the Light, it is your responsibility to attempt to make this clear to those with whom you would share your Light and your knowledge. They may not accept it as such, but you are planting seeds. Man, through the generations upon this planet, has found a desire to worship something. He has built idols that he called gods, of many things, and worshipped them. He worships individuals quite often, in a manner, because he feels that this or that individual has a great amount of wisdom, and power. He has a tendency to worship the individual, and man has through his religious organizations, chosen to worship individuals rather than worship the true God, a God he cannot see. This is why Jesus of Nazareth has been worshipped as he has been in your religious organizations, and this was not his intention. If you will recall in your scriptures, in Revelations, for instance, when John fell down at the feet of the Master, he was told that he was not to worship him, but rather the Father that dwells within. Yet your churches have ignored this.

By observing their attitude toward this great Master. I realize their lack of understanding. These people have been sincere in their worship, but they have not quite understood the true meaning. It is much more important to develop this Christ within, for when you have done this your light will so shine that it will light the world as did His.

So, at this time and season, I hope you will emphasize, whenever you have the opportunity, the true meaning of the birth of the Christ-child and what it should mean to each individual. In your prayers for those whom you would have walk in the Light, pray that this will be their understanding. Pray that this Christ-child will enter their hearts, and that they will nourish Him and bring Him to maturity.

May this Christ-love grow ever stronger in the hearts of each of you, and may it manifest to its fullest as you nourish it. May you find great peace and great joy in this time and season and may you carry it forth through the new year and the years to come that it might make your way lighter and your path much smoother.

I leave you with my blessings and my love, and extend the blessings and the love of all of my coworkers. They wish each of you a joyous season.

Peace. ♣
