Oxal: Greetings in the light, my friends.

Tonight I have chosen to speak with you upon the state of planet Shan, as we view it from our vantage point. We have for a better part of five years in your time, been viewing and studying situations very closely upon your planet, and this beloved friends, is what we find.

Let us begin with what you think of as your more highly civilized races. As we view these people, we note that a great deal of time, a great deal of what you call your money or your substance with which you barter, is being used in preparation for war. The talents or the so called brains of your planet, are exerting their efforts in devising new ways to destroy each other. And I ask you, my friends, now can you avoid such disaster, when continually your greatest efforts are spent in preparation for this?

And then we find that a very large percent of your population lives entirely on the efforts of the smaller percentage of your population. Your governments maintain huge staffs of people, great armies, air forces and what have you, these being supported entirely by the minority populations. This classification of your population, my friends, is producing nothing for mankind, which leaves a very small percentage of the population of your earth, supporting by the sweat of its brow, the greater portion. And this, my friends, includes those who are living on what is known as your interest system. These too, contribute nothing to mankind.

We find also that in your education system, many years are spent in learning that which has gone before. Great time is spent in studying and learning of the wars that have gone in years past and many other subjects which concern the past. Man needs to spend very little time in reviewing the past, for little will be gained, but rather let man look continually forward and learn that which will bring him new light, which will improve his race, which will raise his standards of understanding. He who looks back continually is lost.

Knowledge is a great thing to have, but it is not the greatest thing, for unless man hath wisdom with his knowledge, it will avail him nothing. In fact his knowledge may destroy him and wisdom is not gained through intellectual knowledge. Wisdom comes only with spiritual knowledge and understanding, and this, my friends, we find very lacking in what you think of as your higher civilizations.

As we have observed what is known among you as your lesser races, would you believe it, we find a much greater spiritual understanding? We find among what could almost be called your savage races, more spirituality than is found in your higher civilizations. We find great numbers of these who actually demonstrate in their living, true brotherhood, for we find that among many of these, no one is allowed to break his bread without sharing with those who have less than he. Their children are accepted, when need be, into the household and are treated as one of their own, and these, my friends, are only a few of the things that we find in some of these races. Some of your higher civilizations could well learn from these people, as well as they could learn from the higher races.

But we do not find this feeling of brotherhood, this feeling of wanting to share, to understand and accept something from one who is beneath in their opinion. That is why we say to all of you of planet Earth, that understanding is the only salvation for planet Earth today. If man of Earth is to survive, an understanding of brotherhood must come into being. An understanding of love, the true meaning of these things, an understanding and an effort to demonstrate them.

The commandments that were given to you many years past, these were simple, my friends, but they are universal, and they are a must in the evolution of man. But as we probe the minds of Earth people, very few places do we find a love for their creator, or even a thought of him, yet this is your first commandment. And in this probe, we find very little love for their fellow man, yet this was given as your second commandment and equal unto the first.

I do not mean to imply that this is not found anywhere, for in the hearts of a few of you we find great love and we find a great desire to know truth, to do something about the situation that exists upon your planet today, but percentage wise, my friends, it is very, very small.

It is difficult for us to understand why man refuses to follow a path that is so obvious, yet we find this so. I say to you, my friends, in all sincerity, love ye one another, for in this will be your salvation.

May the Peace, the light and the understanding of the great ones fill your hearts to over flowing. I leave you by extending to you the love, the light and the understanding of my people.

I am Oxal. ✨
