Oxal: Greetings in the Light, my friends, I am Oxal.

We have listened to your conversation and watched your reactions. Your comments have been interesting. However, from our vantage point, we view your people somewhat differently than do you. We do not see you as separated by boundaries but as a race of people as a whole. But you have brought into your civilizations separations, built barriers of languages, customs and what not. This has made it very difficult for your peoples to reach an understanding of each other, to build among themselves any type of common bond. Yes, my friends, it will be a great task to attempt to join the people of Earth together in any one common bond, yet, if peace is to come to your people, if your civilization is to avoid complete destruction, a common bond must be formed, must be found that will tie your people together in a common cause.

This cannot be done at this time through your religions, for your religions are so many and so varied, therefore a common bond of another description must be found, and what could be a better bond than in trying to preserve your entire civilization? It seems that among Earth peoples that the only thing that can bring them together in a common bond, is a threat. Even in your own great country in times of threat of war, your religious groups, your organizations which are many and varied, join together quickly in the common bond of preservation.

So, you see, beloved friends, today your entire civilization faces a similar threat, and this can be a bond of the people that will bring the people, the masses, together for their own preservation. If this can be done—we are not sure—for the resistance and the lack of interest has made it difficult. Enough of your people have not yet realized the danger that they face. Perhaps they shall not realize it in time.

The competition for power may increase much faster than the realization of the danger, and, my friends, this is a race of power. It is a race to control the power of nuclear energy. The race is transferring from electrical to atomic energy, and the opinion of the great world powers today is that he who holds in his hand the control of nuclear energy, holds the control of the world in which you live. It is as simple as that, my friends. The power supply that controls the function of your nation, is the greatest control that can be had, for without these energies your industries would not function.

There is, however, another race involved in this, the race into space, and this may have a greater impact than you realize. Great advancements are being made in your exploration of space, and in the next few years some of your people are going to reach another planet, and this is going to bring some of the greatest changes that have taken place in your civilization. It is going to rock to the foundation your religions and many of your customs and beliefs.

This, my friends, may be the one accomplishment that will do more for the saving of the civilization of planet Earth than anything that could happen, providing you do not destroy yourself first before this can happen.

But regardless of all this, even if this is to take place and your civilization becomes awakened, a Brotherhood of Man must still come about. An understanding must take place among its peoples. Let us all hold the thought that your exploration into space shall be successful before your destruction becomes successful, for this will be the turning point for Earth man. To many, the shock will be too great.

Now, my beloved friends, I will take no more of your time but will leave you by extending to you the love, the light, and the understanding of my people.

I am Oxal. ♣
