These lectures are not of a religious nature but rather deal with the science of human potential and evolution. This document is a direct transcription from the original recording. Teacher: My peace and my love I extend to each of you, my friends, and my greetings to you, my son.

As you travel the corridors of events and experiences, sometimes one becomes, shall we say, a bit confused as to the path or direction to take.

But as man stands still and becomes aware of these inner attractions and impulses, he finds himself drawn in certain directions. Sometimes, almost automatically, he finds himself drawn to certain individuals, and he finds that many things take place that appear to be directed and oftentimes this is the case. But, it is well to remember and to observe these things as they pass, and often we can draw certain conclusions. Often we find ourselves drawn closely with certain individuals, and then our paths part, and we pass through other experiences, associations. Then again we find, in certain cases, these paths do never cross again and in certain cases other individuals are drawn together, time and time again. All of these things, beloved ones, have meaning in our pattern and it is well to observe.

Now you are approaching a time of events that will move more rapidly as your civilization advances in its science, and its spiritual growth. The momentum of the increase grows continually more rapid, and the accomplishments that will come to the remnants of your civilization in the near future, will be so fantastic that it would seem almost inconceivable to the greater part of your population today. But, my friends, the law continues to function. Nature moves ever onward, gathering momentum as she moves.

Events will occur in the lives of each of you that will have great significance in your rise on the path of truth. Try to bear in mind that man does not live alone, that he is only a minute part in a vast great sea of life that extends into infinity. Thus far in your sojourn, you have observed very little of what you call nature or god, or whatever term you might like to use. Soon you shall see her in some of her greater expressions, and as you move onward on the path of life. She shall grow greater and greater, more beautiful and more astounding, and your understanding of her will grow, and grow, and grow. You shall find that your lives, day-by-day, shall become more interesting, more thrilling, as you receive more and more insight into the things that are approaching.

It is our hope that each of you shall rise in understanding together, and through the uniting of your powers, your abilities, and your spiritual growth, you shall be able to accomplish great things for the aid of your peoples. Let the love and the light of the great Masters throughout the universe flow through and to you. Be ever open and receptive to the help that they are anxious to give you, remembering always that you are dedicated to the service of mankind, and that your reward for your service will be understanding.

Questioner: Did you have reference to any particular individuals working together?

Teacher: I did not specify any individuals, for this will come to you as you move along your path, and you will know those with whom you are to serve, when, where and how. Each man, when he becomes aware, will follow in the right direction. But the awareness that man develops is the thing that will enable him to follow in the right direction. In the course of events and experiences, through a development of a recognition of the inner guidance and in elimination of self, one shall follow always his path. But these, my friends, are necessary, very necessary things to develop. One must always remove self, and maintain within, that desire to serve for the good of man, of mankind, not for any individual group of men or any one race of man, but for man as a whole.

Peace be with you, my friends. Peace, Peace, Peace.
