Teacher: Peace, Peace be with you, beloved.

Let thy hearts rest in peace and in this peace, rise up, O children, rise up and come forth, for the time is at hand when the children of light must stand forth. Yes, the time of his kingdom, the manifestation of this is at hand. The wheat and the chaff are being separated. Soon, once more, the great light shall shine on planet Earth and man shall once more know himself, but now is the time to come out and be counted. Man, if he is to reach the higher goal must stand forth.

There is so much to be done for mankind to awaken him to the truth that he must see. No longer can we stand upon ceremony, no longer can we hide in the bush. Man must face his destiny, the full knowledge of what lies ahead. Man must rapidly expand his consciousness if he is to reach the higher rungs of the ladder. No longer can he close his eyes to that which he does not want to see because of what embarrassment it may bring upon him. Man must recognize his errors and go about a way of correction.

The time is now when Man must be receptive to new knowledge and understanding, that he might bring himself into a higher state of consciousness. The day of seeking truth in the temple has passed. Man must now search within—within the temple of his own heart where lies all truth. He must learn to unlock the door and let it flow. And this, beloved ones, can only occur in the silence of your own chamber. So, come ye out from among them, stand forth and let your light shine. Lay your burdens at the feet of your creator and raise your heads high, knowing full well that you are master of it all.

The deeds of the Masters that have trod the earth, attempting to bring you the truth and understanding, are yours to have and to hold. But this is not done by withholding your light. Let it shine for all to see. Make peace with yourself and you shall have peace with your fellow man. Earth man has not yet made peace within himself; therefore, he does not have peace in the outer.

For, when peace reigns supreme within your own being, peace surrounds you everywhere. Therefore, let not trouble linger within your hearts, but rather create the consciousness of peace. Beloved ones, take into your being great quantities of this creative light.

Create it through your own consciousness. You have these powers within you. You can create what you will. No one can deviate your path, for it is yours to choose and to follow. Many are the students of truth, yet few are they who put into use the truths that they know, the truths that they have learned intellectually. For unless we use the power within us, the knowledge has availed us little. And I must repeat, come ye out from among the masses and stand forth as one who knows the truth, who realizes the individual potentiality that lies within him and intends to master and use it for the good of all mankind.

May the peace, the love and the understanding, of all the great Masters surround each of you and fill your hearts to overflowing.

Peace, beloved, Peace, Peace. ✿
