

Caveat: These communications are informative teaching instructions for those who seek to increase their understanding of themselves and the magnitude of the future lying before us all. These lectures are not of a religious nature but rather deal with the science of human potential and evolution. This document is a direct transcription from the original recording. Although it has been checked for obvious errors, it has not been finally edited.

Copyright © 2012 Clyde Trepanier

February 15, 1982

Yaum: Greetings to you, my friends.

I thought I would stop by today and pay you a little visit. It is my pleasure to be in your presence again.

I understand that you are now studying one of Mr. Richard Ingalese's books. I had the pleasure of knowing him and his wife when he was here teaching. They were very advanced occult students and have since reached adeptship. They were very much convinced that some of these occult truths should be told and taught as simply as possible, that the real truths should be brought out and explained as simply as possible.

One of the problems with many of these truths has been that those who taught them and wrote about them, were quite vague and evasive in many of the explanations. Many of the lesser of the occult writers and teachers did not themselves understand and know. They only had a slight knowledge and therefore they could not put into writing and teaching that which they did not understand themselves.

So I hope you will receive much enlightenment and good from his teachings. If you have any questions on these matters and I can be of any help to you, I would be glad to share my understanding with you.

Questioner: In my understanding, the objective mind in which we exist, is a dream world and the only real world is the world of spiritual consciousness. Will you comment on this?

Yaum: Well, you see the objective mind as Mr. Ingalese is telling you, is the animal mind which has evolved through the various kingdoms, such as the plant and animal. The animal mind's experiences have been such that it has certain characteristics which were necessary in this existence, especially as it reached the animal state. There were many things that were necessary for its own evolvment and protection, such as fear. That is a normal and important part of the animal mind, or the objective mind. So you see where the fear comes from in the mind of man, it is coming from the animal nature. So the objective world is not a dream world. It is a world of reality. It is a world of experience of evolvment, of growing, and both the objective and the subjective mind are in a process of evolution.

The subjective mind being of a higher nature which came from and was created directly from Universal Mind or Deity, or whatever terminology you choose to use. It has not experienced what the objective mind has experienced. It did not know fear because it had no reason to fear as it had never experienced it. It had never experienced the law of cause and effect. It had never experienced a need to survive because it survived on the ethers about it in its process of evolution before coming to planet Earth, or whatever planet it might go to.

It is not a matter of a dream world. It is a matter of experiencing, of evolving, of growing, of knowing, and using to your benefit the experience and the knowledge that you gain.

The subjective mind—having never experienced any of these things coming down into this density or environment and joining with the animal mind—was for a long time pretty much absorbed by the animal mind. It had to adjust itself to the laws of cause and effect and to the laws of this environment. Never having experienced the senses as they are experienced in the animal kingdom, it did not know how to handle these things. So it has been absorbed into this through these experiences and has become a part of it, and has, you might say, somewhat lost its identity of what it really is.

But there is always this yearning within, and I'm sure that all of you have been aware of this, this little something within that makes you have this desire to return, that there is a better place, a better way, and something that you should be striving for. Is this not so? That is that little memory that you have back there of this higher form of expression.

But it is your duty, your job, having come into this environment to overcome this animal nature, to bring up the animal mind to this spiritual mind. So this is not really a dream, it is a reality. But when one understands who and what he is, where he has come from, where he is going and what his duties are, then it makes it somewhat easier for each individual mind to know what he has to do and to be about his Father's work.

Questioner: Who is the individual? What is it in us that we think of as I?

Yaum: That is the "I am," that is spoken of in many of your writings. That is the "I am I," that part of Universal Consciousness which is expressing as an individual part of Universal Consciousness. It is Universal Consciousness individualized, expressing as an individual, as a created mind. Each one of these was created in the image and likeness of their creators, which were the Cosmic or Planetary Spirits.

Questioner: It really is above and outside of the other two minds then?

Yaum: No, it is the mind. You are mind. That is all you are. You are not this body through which you express.

Questioner: Then the subjective and objective are only phases of mind?

Yaum: Yes, there are two different phases of mind. One, the subjective mind, was created directly out of Universal Consciousness. The other mind, the objective mind, what you call the animal or lower mind, evolved through the evolution of planet Earth. It came up through the kingdoms of the earth. It was not created directly out of Universal Mind.

These are two different individual minds, evolving at a different rate and eventually coming together and will be joined together from then on. This is where the statement came from, "Those that God has joined together, let no man put asunder," for if this occurs there will be much suffering by each. That is not to say that it does not occur for it does, but it causes much distress for each one.

Questioner: The occultist's view, according to Mr. Ingalese, seems to be that yellow on this planet is not a true yellow, but is a higher form of the vibration of orange. Is it true that there is no white on this planet?

Yaum: Yes, this is true. The white is not used at all upon the physical or chemical plane as you know it here. It would not be usable. It is of a vibration that would not be suitable and could not be tolerated by the individuals here.

For instance, we could say that if you were to view this light with your physical eyes it would blind you. Some of you have experienced or heard of certain individuals who have experienced some great beings appearing to them with a light around them which was blinding. I'm sure you have all heard of this. This would be a being who emanated somewhat into the white range but not the complete white because it would not be possible for one on the physical plane to view this light. It would be completely blinding and is only found in the very, very high realms as I understand it.

Yellow is found very little upon planet Earth. To find someone who is tuned to the yellow vibration would be very, very rare upon planet Earth. It is a very high vibratory color.

Questioner: It does us no good then during a meditation, to send white light to anybody or anything?

Yaum: You are better off using the colors such as orange, blue, green. You see you have many ranges in each color, and as you go on, if you continue in your occult study, eventually you will learn the uses of these colors and how to tune into them. To use a color very effectively you must be able to attune yourself to that color vibration. Once you have accomplished this, then you can use this color for whatever purpose you wish to use it for at that time.

(We suggested using the white light in the past because white as you know it, would be easier for you to visualize than color. It is not a true cosmic white because of its lower vibratory rate.)

Questioner: Is the color violet a shade of the red vibration or the blue?

Yaum: That would be more of the blue vibration. The orange fades off into the red, and the red, of course, fades off into the black, so you would never want to send anybody black or red. Orange is a life-giving force which is necessary for all life regardless of what it is. That vibration is a life-giving energy which is necessary for all life to maintain its life form. Purple is a shade of the blue, too.

Questioner: Would you care to comment upon what we can expect this summer in the way of environmental changes?

Yaum: Well, the conjunction of the planets will move along according to its pattern. It exerts pressures on the Earth which causes stress and strain. It causes weather patterns to change and the jet streams to vary. I think you are going to see continuing extremes throughout this year. I think these are going to gradually increase as more and more of the planets begin to line up. This is only the beginning of the conjunction which will include eventually several planets. This is not at this moment a complete lineup. Due to the distance from the sun of each one, they will come into line at different times because they are travelling in different arcs. They may be travelling at the same speed but one is travelling a larger arc than the other. You are going to have another one coming in in 1984 which will begin to line up. But as they begin to line up they are exerting pressures, and this is what you are seeing now just from the two. As the lineup becomes more and more complete you will see more and more activity.

Questioner: Can we expect earthquakes this summer?

Yaum: Yes, I think you will see an increase in the activities of the fault lines. I think that you are going to see perhaps more and more extreme weather such as storms, and perhaps situations reversing and going into droughts in certain areas. You are going to see great fluctuations at this time.

Questioner: Have you been getting in China the extreme weather and the storms that we have been having?

Yaum: They are having extreme weather all over the planet, some places more than others. But all are going to be affected, but not all at the same time. We haven't had in this part of China, the weather that you have had. But I expect we will, and I expect our seismic activity to be increased. In this country (China) there are some very active fault lines and we may get some severe earthquakes from this.

Questioner: Do you see any relief for the people of Poland?

Yaum: It looks doubtful for quite some time. I don't think that Russia is going to give in much to Poland and allow them to get out from under their wing, so to speak. I think that they have a long struggle on their hands. So I do not see much encouragement for that area.

Now, my friends, I must leave you. As I leave I extend my love and my peace to each of you.

May your understanding grow. May you have great success in establishing that which you desire.

May the knowledge that you gain advance your evolution rapidly. You can be what you desire to be, work, my friends, work.

Peace, peace. Go in peace. ♣