Zalhem: Greetings to you, my children, I am Zalhem.

The great Christian population of your world is about to embark upon a great celebration in remembrance of the crucifixion and resurrection of their great leader. This event in the life of this great Master receives a good deal of emphasis, however, it is rather sad that the true symbology of this event is not understood, even by the leaders of the great Christian religions.

His whole ministry was devoted to trying to open the eyes of both the masses and their religious leaders at that time. He knew that the people had been kept in darkness due to the false teachings that they were given. He also realized that it was necessary to teach them by the use of parables, as you would teach children, for they were children, where their understanding of Truth was concerned. However, some of these were more receptive than their leaders and were able to perceive more than their leaders, whose minds were littered with false beliefs and an ever increasing desire for power over the people.

Most of his effort was directed toward the masses and especially to those whom he had gathered close to him, for he perceived them to be sincere in their search for knowledge and understanding of truth. All of the events of His ministry carried a lesson for those who have the eyes to see and the ears to hear, but most of these lessons were not accepted by the leaders of that time. They could see that if these laws were understood and put into action, their power over the people would fade. However, all of these events worked out in such a way as to illustrate what man needs to do, and what he, eventually, has to accomplish.

Each event leading up to the conviction and crucifixion bears deep symbolic and esoteric lessons. This whole series of events was intended as a story to illustrate to man what he must do to enter the Kingdom. This same series of events is used in a ceremony in one of the initiations into the Brotherhood, where the candidate learns the true meaning of the crucifixion, the resurrection and the ascension. I could not possibly go into all of the symbology contained in this ceremony because it would be too lengthy and also, because I am not permitted to give this out. It is something that you have to accomplish, grow into and for which you must prepare. It is a spiritual experience that only comes when you are ready for it.

This has to do with the lower and the higher selves and basically, it represents the crucifixion or conquering of the lower self, and the ascension of the higher self into the spiritual plane where life is eternal. This is the true ascension into eternal life and all of us must pass through the experiences and learn the lessons that are symbolically represented by the events in the story of the crucifixion, resurrection and ascension, not as your Master went through them, but the lessons that He was demonstrating there to show what every man and woman must accomplish. That, my friends is about all that I can say about it, but there is much more than meets the eye in the state of evolution where your people stand today.

Soon, a New Age will dawn and new meanings will be given for many of these things, for the people of that time will have a greater understanding and appreciation for what has been done for them by the Master Jesus and other Masters. The Brotherhood serves in a way that is best for mankind at the time that they give their services. As man evolves, greater things can be given him. He must leave the old behind and go on to the new, which will bring him new understanding, new knowledge and the capability to evolve more rapidly.

I leave you, my friends, by extending to each of you my love, my peace and my blessings. As you again review these events, may new insights and new understanding come to you that will make more clear to you the purpose of such things.

Go in peace, my beloved ones, go in peace.

Peace, peace, peace. ☸
