Oxal: Greetings in the light, my friends, I am Oxal

Many of your people have reared their heads above the wall that you call reality, and they have seen that there are things beyond the wall that you call reality. But, by and large, most of your people remain hidden behind this wall, and fear, plus laziness, prevents them from even taking a peek upon the other side. It has been our hope that more of your people would, at least, investigate. But the progress of expansion of consciousness among the masses of your people is exceedingly slow, considering the progress that has been made in other fields.

It is to the advantage of all those who have taken the step beyond this point, to help in every way those who remain behind, to attempt in every way that you can to cause these people to take a look beyond the wall of reality which they have built about them. For, in the times just ahead, it is going to be of vital importance that the eyes be opened of many of your people. Your science is moving much faster than you realize, and if suddenly, information, through certain channels, is brought to your people, the shock may be too much for many. The knowledge of the existence of certain types of civilizations and their ways of life, their development, will come as such a shock to many people that it may destroy their mental stability. So you see, it will be well that whenever you can and when you have the opportunity, to help pave the way for these people.

Many of these people are sincere, are well-meaning, and have attempted to the best of their ability to do the things that to them, in their state of awareness, seemed good and proper. Many have been misled through placing their confidence in those that they felt were authorities in your religious organizations, and have faithfully followed that which they have been taught. Yet they have developed a weakness, they have failed to think, they have failed to search beyond the authority. But many of these, when the realization comes to them of their errors, will quickly correct their searching.

I only mention these things to attempt to bring to you the realization of the responsibility that lies with those who have gone beyond your wall of reality. There are many who should like to come among your people, who would be willing to sacrifice to help your civilization across the threshold into the new Age of which you speak.

But they cannot do this until the desire is in the hearts of enough of your people, and when and if this time does arrive, there are many of great understanding who will be willing to come among your people and to show them the way, for these are beings who are anxious to see your civilization continue and become a great civilization, to become as man was intended to be. They are anxious to become brothers in Truth with your civilization.

But, beloved ones, the answer lies with Earth Man. Only he can make this choice, and we can only give our service when the choice has been made and we are accepted for what we are. We are not gods, we do not wish to be accepted as such, but only brothers who are waiting to extend a helping hand, a hand of friendship when it can be received as such.

I leave you by extending to you the love, the light and the understanding of my people.
