Naketi: Peace to you, my friends, and greetings in the Light of Love and Understanding. I come to you from far beyond the constellation of Orion. As I happen to be in your section of space, I was asked to convey to you a few words. My words shall be few. I am known among my people as Nakiti.

I shall begin. Your people cry for peace, they pray to a God that they know not, for peace. Yet, they find less and less peace prevailing among their civilization. I would say to you beloved, when man can find no peace within his own heart, how can he find peace with his fellow man? Great emphasis is put upon the desires of what he calls his enemy, among men, shall do to him, the advantages he shall take of him, how he shall rob him of his possessions. Yet, do you not know who your greatest enemy is, man of earth? Do you not know? I will tell you. Your greatest enemy my friends of earth, is yourself. Man's greatest enemy is SELF.

If man would find his God, his peace, then he must look within. For only then will he find it. If man would find his devil, he need only but to look within, and there he shall find him. What is needed in your civilization is to know thyself. To realize who and what you are. Man of earth, few of you know who and what you are. You are because He Is. Because you were created first in His image and His likeness and then were given a soul and then a chemical and a physical structure, in which to house the soul. But, you have allowed this physical structure to become master of your soul, and so the war goes on between the carnal desires and that of spirit, and soul becomes the battle ground between the two. The physical becomes the desires that man has allowed himself to become ruled by. My friends, become master of thy lower self so that thy higher self might prevail in your life. But, man of earth has allowed the opposite to happen. He has become victim of the desires of the lower self. Man shall not find peace to a great degree until he has become the master of this lower self. Thus man remains upon the wheel of physical incarnations until he has mastered self. If peace is to be found among your people then it must be found first in the hearts of man. When man finds himself, he has no reason to war with his fellow man.

I have said enough. May each of you here this night soon find within your hearts this peace you desire. Recognize the necessity to conquer self, in order that you might find this peace.

I ask humbly that the Great Masters of your constellation may surround each of you this night with their love, with their light and that they might help you individually to find this peace. I extend to each of you my peace, my love, my understanding. Peace be with you, beloved ones.

Peace. Peace. I go. ✿
