Anthon: To each of thee I extend my greetings and my love. I am Anthon.

I regret to disappoint you tonight for I know that you were in anticipation of hearing my brother Yaum. But it will not be possible for him to be with you at this time for he is involved very deeply in some very important international matters. But he will make every attempt to be with you at your next meeting. The meeting that he is attending tonight is one of very great importance to your nation and to all of your nations.

This man, I am sure you all know, is one of great light. He has a love that is of such magnitude that it is difficult for many of us to comprehend. No sacrifice seems to be too great for him to make if it will benefit his brother man. My respect for him and my love for him is much greater than you could possibly comprehend.

My beloved friends, the time is fast approaching when all workers in the light will be called upon to make great sacrifices. Those of you here this night will be called upon. The time is fast approaching for many of you, and when I say many I extend the horizons to many. For there are many workers in the light who are working on many levels, whose missions are of different natures. But regardless of the size of your mission, be it great in your eyes or be it small, it is important. But soon the time will come for many of you when there will be little time for pleasures of the mundane type. To carry out that which has been assigned to you will require all of your efforts. How well you are willing to do this will determine the results of the overall accomplishments.

But I believe that all of those who are sincere, will be inspired to carry out their work to its fullest and be willing to extend themselves to their fullest capacity. And those who do this will be the ones who will reap the great spiritual awards.

The time is growing short. The time for action is here, it is now. The forces of light are gathering. Soon the battle cry will be heard, soon the march will begin, the march to victory. Few battles are easily won. Much work, much sacrifice and sometimes much suffering is necessary. But through all of this will emerge something greater than you even hoped for, something greater than you have ever conceived. So, beloved people of Earth, my beloved brothers and sisters who now surround me, prepare yourselves for the march.

Prepare yourselves to be strong, to go forward. Prepare yourselves for the march, carrying the banner of His love, carrying it high, knowing that it will always prevail, that it will always be victorious.

Stand forth from among the multitudes, conform not but stand forth upon what you know to be true, to be good, to be just, to be right. for in the end the right will always prevail. To be on the side of right and justice may at times cause much suffering, many heartaches, but in the end will always be victorious and will always bring joy and peace.

I will say no more, I have said more than I intended. There are many who are of greater light than I who are willing and ready to come to you.

I leave you by extending to each of you my love, my Peace and my understanding.

May the love and the Peace of the Christ Light. ☸
