Yaum: Good evening to you, my friend. I see we have some new laces here tonight.

I should like to extend my greetings to each of you and also to my old friends here.

It is my pleasure to once more come among you.

I understand you had requested sometime back that a talk would be given that would explain some of the so called miracles that are taking place in your evangelistic movements. Also, what they call the moving of the Holy Spirit or the Holy Breath. I was asked by the circle that works with your group to give this talk so I shall do my best to share my understanding with you. I will state again that it is my understanding and you do not need to accept what I say as truth for you must find your own truth and make your own judgments.

There is today perhaps more healing taking place in what you call evangelism than in other groups, churches or what have you. This, of course, is perhaps resented by many of your organized religions, organized sects etc. They make many attempts to explain many these things by saying that the healings do not last and this and that etc, But never the less there is more healing taking place in that area today and perhaps has been for many, many years. The reason for this is that most of the qualified healers who are natural channels for healing—and you must have certain qualifications for this, certain earned qualifications—have been guided more or less into the area of the evangelistic movement because they can work better there. They can accomplish more there and do a greater work than they would be able to do in metaphysical organizations or orthodox churches. They do not find the opposition then to their work there. The fact that they are very orthodox in their belief and very dogmatic in many areas does not hinder or prevent in any way their ability to carry on their work, you see. But you will find one thing that all of these people have in common—they have a great unshakable faith and this is important. They are also both chemically and physically qualified to be used as channels of healing.

The fact that they do not know what is happening does not alter their ability. They claim that this is the Holy Spirit working through them that this is God power working through them and it is God power, it is the power of God. But the fact that this power has been directed by a greater being who is qualified to do this, to use a channel of this type unbeknownst to them, is not important. It does not matter what they believe and if you were to tell one of them that they were being used by a higher being as a channel for healing, they would deny this. But it does not matter whether one knows the source or not.

Noah, after he was told to build the ark, said that God told him to build an ark. It was not God who told him, it was a high Godly being, but that did not matter, he built the ark and all was well.

It was the same with people then as now, but they do not have to know as long as they are pure of heart and mind they are good channels and the power flows through them. It is necessary for the higher beings to direct this power through a physical form because there is a process which takes place in doing this. A change takes place in bringing the vibratory rate of these powers into a range where they can be effective upon a physical being, a physical body, you see. It is necessary to channel this.

Now, perhaps I should explain a little bit here because this is not 100% correct. This power can be directed directly to an individual but, in most cases it is more effective if it is channeled through a human channel. Even in absent healing very often this power is channeled through another physical individual. Distance does not affect it, it can still be effective and often this power works in different ways, depending upon the individual it is working on and the condition of this individual.

Some individuals can make the change much faster than others. In other words, as in instantaneous healing where, what would be called an impossible transformation takes place such as bones being replaced, cancers being dissolved etc. In other individuals it takes a longer period of time. It may take days or even months for this power to work and this is not so much the lack of the power, or intensity of the power, or anything of that type, it is more the type of individual that could not receive this much power or this much of a change at one time. They would not physically be able to make this change. You see things happen for the best results for the individual being helped.

Many healings do take place from prayer. You have many groups, many prayer groups who do pray for healing for people and they have results. But in most of these cases some individual is being used to channel this power through. He may not even be aware of it but it is happening.

Another thing that makes the evangelist more successful is that they put a great deal of emotion into it. You notice that in their meetings they have a great deal of singing, of joy making. All of this helps, it helps to build up the vibrations and when the vibrations are high in the proper degree, these things can happen much easier.

This is one trouble with your metaphysical groups, they are too reserved. They do not want to get emotional, to speak out. They say that this is not necessary but it does help. I say, it does help a great deal and this is another reason why things happen in a greater quantity in these groups because with these methods they do build up their vibrations. Perhaps most of them are not aware of what is actually taking place. They also express praise and thanksgiving and this is good as they do it with great joy and enthusiasm and this is important. This is lacking in your more dignified groups and organizations.

You hear a great deal in your evangelistic groups about being baptized by the Holy Spirit. They have some misconceptions there, but again this is not important. A healing is not necessarily a baptism by the Holy Breath and in only a very few cases have they been truly baptized. A change takes place in these people but most comes when they are healed and they become a different person. They become more loving and more grateful and more willing to serve. This is good and helps them in their further growth.

But I would not say that they have been baptized by the Holy Spirit because if you will read your scriptures you will find, I believe that in every case where the true baptism of the Holy Breath is described, much greater things happen, much takes place which one cannot doubt and they know that has happened, because the change in the individual is so great and over and above that, things happen in the outer that removes all doubt. The fact that they believe and state that they've had the baptism does not make any difference. In due time they will learn differently.

The sad part is that all of your religious organizations are so aloof that they do not try to learn from each other. The metaphysician could learn much from the evangelist and he could learn much from the metaphysicians. But they build a wall between themselves and we hope someday to remove this wall. Then, in sharing their understanding with each other with open minds they can perhaps come to an understanding of really how God works. For God being what He is, must work through man as this is the only way He can work for man. It is the God part of man that is working and you all have this. It does not matter what your stations may be on the ladder of evolution you are still a part of God

The one great requisite that man must have is faith. He does not need to understand God. The evangelist has this faith and does not try to understand God so much, since he believes in God.

Many a mind has wasted many years in trying to understand God with a finite mind and my friends, this is not possible. The finite can never comprehend the Infinite and until you become Infinite you will not totally understand the Infinite. So try harder to know how the Infinite works through the individual, making yourselves a channel for the Infinite to work through. Live your truth day-by-day as you understand and know it at that time, knowing that your truth today may not be your truth tomorrow, for truth will expand with your consciousness. So if you keep an open mind, do not judge, do not ridicule, do not condemn the actions of another but live to the best of your knowledge the truth that you know, you will in due time become the Infinite and then you will know the Infinite.

It has been my privilege to spend this time with you tonight. I wish to extend my gratitude to each of you for listening to me. I should like to thank these in this household for accepting me this night.

May each of you go forth with a greater love, a greater peace and joy in your hearts. May each of you reach your heights in truth as rapidly as you can receive it. I ask the blessings of all the Great Ones to be on each of you this night. May their love and their Peace be invoked upon each of you.

Go in Peace, my friends. ☸
