

Caveat: These communications are informative teaching instructions for those who seek to increase their understanding of themselves and the magnitude of the future lying before us all. These lectures are not of a religious nature but rather deal with the science of human potential and evolution. This document is a direct transcription from the original recording. Nathaniel: Greetings to you, my beloved friends,

I would like to say a few words about what is going on in your civilization today. This has been a century of rapid change. Those of you who have been here since the beginning of the 20th century, will vouch for this. There has been more change in this century than has taken place in many centuries past.

The reason for that, is that this is the time of change, the falling away of the old and the taking over of the new. This is the time when the old has fulfilled its purpose and is now giving way to the new.

Many have had problems accepting this, many do not like change, they feel comfortable in the old ruts and would would like to stay there, but this is not possible. Either you must move with the times, accept the new and discard the old or you will stay in your rut and rot away.

You are going to see much greater changes taking place; they are taking place at this time. You will see marvels that you have not yet dreamed of. There are energy sources that have been demonstrated to your science many years ago at the beginning of this century and throughout the early part of it. Too many of your scientists at that time, were not able yet to conceive of the possibilities that lay ahead. They could not let go of the old, and could not accept the fact that there was knowledge so much greater than theirs, that it made them look like school boys.

But the work of Mr. Tesla and others that took place at that time was not in vain, for now new and more open-minded and forward looking scientists are realizing the magnitude of the experiments and knowledge that Tesla put forth and are again going to work on these things, and are determined to understand and develop them. And it is being done and has been worked on for a number of years and now they are reaping the fruits of their efforts. Mankind is going to benefit from their efforts as these men are determined that they are not going to be pushed aside.

They are not going to be pushed into the background by those in power, and they are going to approach from a standpoint of what they can do to better mankind.

They are going to work through the system, but making sure that the "common man" as you call him, or the "man on the street," knows about these things, and knows that they are here now and can be used and developed for the good of mankind, to relieve his suffering.

These scientists have been working and developing new ways, and have been successful, in producing better food and in more abundance, where the hungry can be fed, where the sick can be made well, where man can live in health. Also out of this is going to come a new philosophy, one that will require man to pull his own weight, to realize his responsibility to mankind and to himself, as new methods will be developed in the ways of teaching the young, teaching them more rapidly, eliminating what you call "drop-outs." It is not necessary to have those who seemingly cannot learn, who cannot accomplish. All people can learn and accomplish, if they are properly taught, but all cannot be taught in the same way. The method of teaching will vary with certain types of egos, each learning the things and the ways that are beneficial to him or to her that they might have an abundant life.

The realization must be taught to them that they have a responsibility to mankind as well as to themselves; that they cannot live off the efforts of others, for parasites do not help a civilization to evolve. They only prevent, and they must be eliminated and many will be during the coming times. So you see, there are many changes ahead of you.

Questioner: Will many of these things come about before the turn of the century?

Nathaniel: Yes, some of these things will, some of them are here now, and despite the economic and geographical turmoil and changes that will take place, the good that has been brought forth and developed and is beneficial, will not be lost but will be carried on into the new century or new era and civilization.

Although all things are known, all knowledge is there and available in Universal Consciousness, man must develop it and draw it forth and bring it forth into his civilization through his own efforts which is not accomplished over-night, as it takes time.

Questioner: Do you think that the development of better food and better food production methods, will be available before the turn of the century to alleviate food shortages?

Nathaniel: This remains to be seen. Much will depend upon mankind himself, how he accepts the new things and what he does to either destroy or develop anything that comes forth. Man himself, has been the deterrent. He has held himself back. He had the opportunity early in this century to have much more, if it had been accepted instead of rejected. But still that did not destroy it and again it is surfacing through the minds of earnest, hard-working people who are sincere and trying to do something for mankind, to break up the old and bring in the new.

Already you have some things that are useful. In your medical profession there has been some development in recent years where they are now able to do surgery with laser beams without incisions and it is much quicker, painless and more efficient.

The problem with these various new methods, is the tremendous cost that is put upon it, by your industry and your professions. But that too, will change as you already see some professions soliciting business, as there is an overabundance in many of them. This in itself, through the law of supply and demand, will eventually bring down the cost and relieve the tremendous burden, somewhat, that has been put upon mankind by these professions. Then mankind will be better able to receive the benefits of their talents and of their equipment.

So, you see, these changes do not come suddenly, but gradually. If you will look closely, you will see these improving trends.

But it is going to be more and more difficult for the great monopolies to control these things, as the people are becoming wiser, and they are going to demand that these wrongs be righted. And through their efforts they will be righted.

Now, I must be leaving. I extend to you the love, the blessings and the understanding of all of the Circle R teachers.

I invoke the blessings of the Great Ones upon each of you.

May you find peace and joy and happiness in your ongoing. Be happy, be joyous, be peaceful, for a peaceful man is a joyous man.

Peace, beloved ones, peace, peace. ☸
