Teacher: Peace be with you always.

Beloved, where two or more are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of you. Were this not so, I would not have stated so. Beloved children, increase your light, that it might shine forth and lighten this dark world of yours. Great is the need in this hour. You can be of no greater service to your fellow man than to build your own light and use it to lighten the lives of those about you. It is not necessary for you to preach your truth in the temple or to shout it from the rooftop. Nay, not so, for he who lives the law attracts unto him that, and those who are seeking to know.

Cast not your pearls before the swine, no, but let your light so shine as to fill the lives of those with whom you come in contact. These will be the temples that shall bring the truth to Earth man. Not the temples built by those who would bring to man that which he would have him know. Man of Earth has had truth withheld from him long enough. Now he shall have the opportunity to know the truth and woe into those who have falsely taught in my name. Their Karma shall be great. Great temples of stone are not necessary in the eyes of the great ones. His truth is reveled in the hearts of man.

Love ye one another, for in so doing, you are living the law. Cast aside these petty grievances. Let the love of the great and radiant One fill your hearts with love. Condemn not that which you have, but bless it and use it to glorify truth, for when ye have found the kingdom, all these things are added. There is lack for nothing in his kingdom. To lose one's possessions in spirit is to gain them, for in true spiritual understanding there can be lack of nothing.

Many have been the great Masters who have trod your Earth. Each has brought great teachings of truth, but the darkness has hidden these truths. Therefore, let he who has eyes, see, and he who has ears, let him hear and know the truth. It shall not be found in the great temples, but in the heart of man. Know ye not that ye are the temple of creation? O man of Earth, open your hearts and receive this great light which is being given to you at this time. Yea, I say unto you, Man but needs to open his heart and receive the glory of the one great being. He need only be touched by the light to awaken in him great revelations. To bring about a degree of understanding that will put him on a path of great magnitude, great learning, great wisdom and understanding. Beloved children of the light, open your hearts that this river of light might flow to you and raise you to heights far, far beyond that you can now conceive of.

Blessed be ye everyone, blest be ye. May the love of the infinite Father fill your cups to overflowing, and may your being become so filled with his great love that your light will shine forth for all to see and may this light emanating through you, raise the consciousness of this planet to a new level.

Peace be with you, my friends, peace, love and understanding. ☸
