Hatton: I greet you in the love and the light of the Infinite Creator. I am Hatton.

At this time I should like to take the opportunity to welcome our new friend into your group. Now that he has become a definite part of your group, we extend to you, my brother, our greetings, our love and know that you shall be an asset to Center R as this group has been designated.

Our desire for this group is that they become a closely knitted group and that each individual within the group shall become a part of the whole. In other words, we should like to see an oneness grow whereby the individuals can become as one in thought and in purpose. You were told some months past that we would like to see this group reach the state wherein this could be made possible and that if this does come about, this group shall be a focal point for information for this area. There are many groups forming within your city. There shall be many more. Each of you shall be asked at various times to lend aid to these people. This we ask that you do to the best of your ability, freely and willingly. By doing this freely and willingly as nature gives hers, you can be of great aid to your fellow beings. Each of you shall be measured by your willingness to give in service. As each day passes you shall find more and more opportunities. Please take advantage of these in every way you can.

I realize that many of you have doubted your own ability to serve in the manner in which you felt was necessary. But I should like to assure you that you need not fear this. We have pledged our help to you and we intend to fulfill our pledge. Have confidence in yourselves and know that we are always standing by ready to help you. I believe many of you have had the experience of knowing that this has taken place. So give of yourself freely, knowing that you shall always be able to fulfill that which is required of you. Self confidence shall help you considerably. Have no doubts. Have great faith in your ability. Know that through your service, through your efforts, you shall receive new knowledge, new understanding and wisdom.

Unity among you is gradually being established. As to individual, some of you do not feel that this is true, but you are gaining understanding without realizing it. When your recognition comes then you shall have greater understanding. You have been brought together for this purpose because you could only know understanding by experiencing it. Wisdom comes by experience.

I shall leave you now. May the Infinite creator send forth His light, His love, His understanding. And may each of you absorb great quantities of these. May each of you learn to love and understand each other to the point where you can establish a solid oneness among you and may this come to you soon.

Odina, my friends, I am Hatton. ☸
