Johenie: My peace and my blessings to you, beloved ones.

At times it is somewhat of a decision that is difficult to make in attempting to choose a subject upon which to speak to you that will be of great interest to all concerned. So, this evening I have decided, if it is your pleasure, to attempt to answer some questions for you.

Questioner: Thank you, I think we'd like that, wouldn't we?

Johenie: Would you like this? There is one thing I shall request, and that is that you keep your questions impersonal. So, my friends, shall we start from there, in a manner in which you wish to conduct this.

Questioner: Will there be peace and prosperity in the foreseeable future?

Johenie: Now we are getting into predictions, and I must state to you, beloved ones, that in predictions I can only be, shall we say, general, and now, you see, beloved ones, in this question that our dear brother here has asked, we are again faced with interpretations. For what would be to one person prosperity, may not be to another, therefore, I shall have to answer your question in these terms.

In the near foreseeable future I see for many of your people great prosperity, for many of your other people or for many numbers of your people, I also see famine and lack. For your nations of this planet as a whole, I see a period of great struggle to maintain a degree of prosperity among their people, and I see this struggle growing ever greater, and I see the efforts of those growing ever weaker. For systems such as exists upon your planet can never stand through eternity. For until man has reached a state of greater understanding for his fellow man, a state of greater desire to serve his fellow man rather than to serve himself, and this too holds true with your nations, until you have at least some similarity of a world government functioning for the good of all mankind upon your planet with leaders of spiritual understanding, until these things prevail, you shall not experience world prosperity or world peace.

In regards to peace, it is difficult to see how world peace can come to planet Earth when the very discussion of peace brings conflict, for thus far, none of your leaders have been able to agree upon any form of peace, and until this type of negotiations is overcome, until man can meet together in peace and can begin to see at least some similarity of what real peace should be, it is difficult to see how peace can reign supreme upon planet Earth.

Questioner: Thank you.

Questioner: May I ask who we are now talking to? May I ask your name please?

Johenie: In our level of existence or plane of life, names are not necessary. Why do you use names, only because that is the only way you have, the only way you understand to identify, and this, my friends, grows more complicated as time moves on, for in the beginning of your civilization man had one name, then in order to identify him he was given two names and then three and in some cases four and five. The only identification that we use would be one to designate our type of service. If you must have a type of identification, you may call me "Johenie," but I assure you this means nothing more than an identification. I will say to you I am very close to our dear doctor here.

Questioner: Thank you.

Questioner: May I ask a question, Johenie?

Questioner: Thank you.

Questioner: Could you tell us a bit about our family life here, the way we live it and why it is, this way to clarify our way of family life here on Earth?

Johenie: Would you be more explicit as to what you mean by family?

Questioner: Well, yes, we have a system set up here on Earth, where naturally we're apart from one another, so there must be some purpose of living life the way we do with parents and offspring's and what not, and generally it doesn't expand much beyond what we call family. What is the importance of this?

Johenie: This, so far as offspring's are concerned, is only to propagate your race. This is strictly a Law of Nature. Your relationships to your families has become other than instinct, a matter of customs that has been developed by your people. There is a Law in Nature that automatically sets up an instinct in the physical man and woman that creates a desire or a love, as you call it, for the offspring. This you will find throughout nature, through your animal world, but in the animal world it is not carried as far as it is in your human race, and oftentimes I must say, it is carried much too far.

For when a soul has reached the point of maturity in the physical body, they should be released, and before this, they must be allowed to express. Your civilization has much to learn in this respect, a great deal to learn. For in other races in your system, the capabilities or talents of a soul incarnated is known very, very early in the life of this child. He is directed and trained accordingly, therefore, you have no misfits. In Earth civilization there are so many, many, misfits. I believe the terminology that is used by your people "square pegs in round holes" or "round holes in square pegs" this would not exist if the capabilities were determined and your offspring's were allowed to develop as their soul is trying to direct them. Have I covered that which was in your mind?

Questioner: Yes, I was wondering along the line too, what we call duty in the family and love, whether these things are existent in our mind only or whether, whether it's right?

Johenie: You are thinking of duty to another because of blood connection, am I correct in this?

Questioner: Yes.

Johenie: Why should your duty be greater to one in whose veins flow your blood than to that which does not? If all men are to be as one, then we have the same responsibility for all. We are all children of the One Great Intelligence. It matters not whose blood flows in the veins of a physical structure, for this is only, as you well know, a vehicle of conveyance used to experience in this environment. The physical means nothing, and man must learn to see life as such, and when this understanding becomes evident in the minds of Earth Man, then you are truly expressing Brotherhood, for we are all brothers and sisters. Because I chose in this life to incarnate through the use of two physical vehicles, does not set me apart.

Questioner: He has just explained here what I have felt right along and I thank him very much for bringing this out.

Questioner: I would like to ask a question. Each person seems to have a reason for being in this life and what would be the key to find out what your mission on this earth is, for each one of us to do to the best of our abilities?

Johenie: Each soul that chooses to incarnate into this environment has come with a desire to experience certain specific things in order to grow. At a very early age these began to come out through the physical brain as desires, as talents. Too many times, through your systems, your educational systems, selfish desires of parents who would like to have the child follow in his footsteps or her footsteps, to be what I have been known, and the true desires and talents of this soul are pushed back and back, and soon a great confusion begins to take place in the mind of this person, and they are not able to determine the thing that they should be doing. But if the individual as a child could be studied closely, it could soon be determined the path that he should follow, and once he has started on this path, his life shall begin to become harmonious, and all of the desires of the soul shall come forth and begin to express, and he shall allow them to express.

It is the great confusion that has been set up in this manner in the minds of so many of your people that causes the great crimes that you have, the juvenile delinquency. There is no need for these things. At least, if the soul could be allowed to desire, to express as it desires, there would be very, very little of this type of thing that would occur. There you have again what we have previously spoken of; you would not have the square pegs in the round holes. I am sure that each or you have recognized at times these desires, these urges to do certain things, but due to circumstances, you have felt that it was impossible, and you keep pushing them back, pushing them back. This has become I would say something that has been experienced by almost everyone.

True, many of your people are successful as you measure success in your civilization. And still have not expressed that which their soul has been crying for, but these same individuals you will find are not happy in their success.

They have ill health. They try in many ways to overcome the confusion, the unhappiness that is within them, because they are not expressing as they should be. Many of those in your civilization who are known as alcoholics, drug addicts, are people of this type, who all know they were successful in your terms of successfulness, still they were not happy, and they tried to reach happiness through other channels, and many have completely destroyed themselves. Someone else have a question?

Questioner: How can I or anybody for that matter, make people understand just what you said, the agony in people who don't want to understand. They become very little in understanding themselves. To make them understand between lip service they say they pray, and as you can see, it's just lip service, they just don't want to understand or they cannot understand. Now, what is there any measurement that you can see if somebody doesn't want willingly to understand or cannot understand. How can you help those people?

Johenie: My son, this is a very good question, and I know that this is a question in the minds of many of you and many others who are true seekers. You see one thing that has happened in your civilization, your people have been lulled to sleep, so to speak, by their political leaders, their religious leaders and many others whom they consider to be authorities. Your people have been taught to accept the word of certain types of individuals as authority. There have been through these teachings and customs, great walls built up in the consciousness of these people, and these walls have carried from incarnation to incarnation, and in many cases have been built higher and higher through incarnation after incarnation. These are difficult to break until something comes into the life or the experience of this individual that shows to him in some small way that the only authority he will ever find, will be within himself.

It is true, many, many who consider themselves to be highly spiritual, to have great understanding of the spiritual things, are some that have the greatest walls, and as you say, they spend great time, great amounts of time in praying to some deity far off, "giving lip service," I believe was the terminology you used, which means nothing so far as his spiritual growth and brings him nothing.

In attempting to reach these people, it is almost a waste of time if they are completely unreceptive, if they have a closed mind. The greatest way to reach any individual is through our own living, our own examples. For when another man observes that you are happy, are radiant, are successful, you radiate joy and peace, serenity. This is something that all men seek. All men do not admit that they seek this, and all men do not use this terminology, but I am sure that almost anyone in your civilization will admit that happiness is the greatest thing to be had and when he can be brought to the realization that in order to have true happiness, he must also have spiritual understanding, he is beginning to see the light. And through man's demonstration by living, by attaining to this and living this, he will draw other men with him, for they cannot, they cannot touch this man's life without realizing that he has a great something, and a desire will grow within them to know that which he has.

To attempt to smash down the wall of another is almost an impossibility. You see, unless man has some burning desire or some desire within his own heart to know the truth—I am sure that many of your people have some desire, yet, they have not been able to break the habit of acceptance of authority. I believe in my own heart, the greatest thing you of Earth can do is try to point out to individuals the fact that what this man says or that man says, is not so because he says that it is so and that the truth will only in time be found within themselves. When they are open and receptive, then you can spark these truths in them. Do you see?

Questioner: That's easy, yes, that's true.

Johenie: Once they open their minds, you can spark these truths in them, but they must decide within themselves whether what you say is truth or not. Also, or what I say, I do not ask you to accept anything that I say as truth.

Questioner: I'm kind of stubborn on that myself.

Johenie: But take it within your own being and decide whether what I say is truth or not. Not because I have said it.

Questioner: I thank you very, very much.

Johenie: I will answer one more question.

Questioner: What is the purpose and destiny of other forms of life on Earth besides Man?

Johenie: All nature is dependent one upon the other. Each has its function and to try to explain to you the function of each individual form of life upon your planet would take hours. So I can only say in respect to this, that all life form that exists upon your planet, has a function in carrying on the process of this planet, and when this, when this function has ceased to be needed, this form of life will disappear. As you know, many forms of life have disappeared from your planet, because they no longer were needed.

Questioner: Isn't life eternal in all its forms or not?

Johenie: You could say this, because nothing ever has been or ever will be that has not already been and would not always be. It may transform from one form to another, but it will always exist, for it is matter. Everything stems from matter.

It has been my very great pleasure, privilege, to spend this time with you.

I extend to each of you my very deepest blessings and love and understanding. Go in Peace. ☸
