

Caveat: These communications are informative teaching instructions for those who seek to increase their understanding of themselves and the magnitude of the future lying before us all. These lectures are not of a religious nature but rather deal with the science of human potential and evolution. This document is a direct transcription from the original recording. Although it has been checked for obvious errors, it has not been finally edited.

Copyright © 2012 Clyde Trepanier

February 28, 1976

Yaum: Good evening to you my friends.

Questioner: Good evening Yaum.

Yaum: It is my pleasure to once more come among you.

Questioner: It 's wonderful to have you again.

Yaum: Thank you. I am surprised that none of you seem to recall my greetings that I gave to you last night.

Questioner: We are so sorry Yaum.

Yaum: I greeted each of you separately and you do not recall my greetings. Should I be offended?

Questioner: Oh, please don't be.

Yaum: No, I do not become offended that easily. But whether you realize it or not, you received much knowledge and benefit from this class.

The boy here asked me if I would say a few words about the man that you call Tesla, where he came from and why he was able to function as he did. He comes from a civilization way back in the dim past of your earth. At that time he was a great scholar of matter and energy. He also became well versed in cosmic laws and the nature of the cosmos.

He has manifested in other civilizations through the history of your planet, bringing them new knowledge and advancements. And so he came to your planet at a time when it was felt that your civilization was ready to make some rapid advancements which they did not seem to be making on their own. But you must realize that it is very difficult for one who has functioned in the higher realms for so long to come into a lower vibration and to manifest in a body of lower vibration. It is very difficult to adapt to this. But this man had a great mind and knew very early in life what his mission was and what he was to bring forth. This is not to say that when he was very young he realized all that he was to do, but he realized as a very young boy that he was different, that he was not like other boys, and that he thought differently. His interests were quite different and things occurred in his mind that did not seem to occur in other minds. And so he was fired with a burning desire to learn, to grasp the things that other men around him did not seem to grasp. His drive for knowledge was so great within him that at times he had difficulty keeping a balance in his physical body because the physical body which he found himself in was not able to take the strain that his mind was able to impose upon it. So he had difficulty learning to adjust to this physical body. He also discovered during his lifetime that when he deviated too far from his purpose he became very ill. In fact twice in his lifetime, he was at the point of death and only through certain mental changes and decisions was he brought back to a vital being again. So he was very unusual compared to Earthman.

He did not think in terms of monetary gain or even of monetary reimbursements for his services. Many of the things that he developed and brought forth were patented and developed by other people. In other words, what you would call being stolen. But this did not bother him because he did not put any importance upon these things. Even though they infringed upon patents that he had already had patented, he would not prosecute. He would do nothing to prevent it. So, he was exploited greatly by his fellow beings. This he could not understand because his mind did not work in these ways. His whole purpose in life was to bring about a betterment of mankind. But your civilization failed miserably in accepting this man and working with him. If they had been willing to do this, you could have upon your earth today a great master civilization where all would have all that they need. All poverty could have been eliminated, all sickness could have been eliminated and you could have had a Utopia that is beyond Earthman's ability to realize. But Earth people failed.

Questioner: Was that again caused by the indifference of the little people? Or the masses in not taking action as we are doing now?

Yaum: It was caused by the greed for power.

Questioner: But what chance did the little person have if we were under the control of others?

Yaum: The little person did not have any choice. It was not given to the little people. It was held in bay by those who were in power. They would not accept. They could only visualize more wealth, more power, for wealth is only power.

The little people, as you call them, did benefit a great deal from what was allowed to develop but now it is beginning to backfire. You see, you cannot bring to a civilization something that is too far advanced too rapidly. It must be brought about gradually and this is what is happening in this case. For instance, the polyphase system was the first presented, which was a great boon to your nation and your world. Man was relieved of a lot of his labors. For through this you are able to use this power to produce other items to help mankind. But then, Tesla started to bring forth other things to supersede that, which would be better and would help mankind more. But this was not accepted because it appeared to those at the time that it was not profitable enough and it could not be used to gain power.

But you see what has developed in your energy system that is now becoming more and more costly. Tesla brought forth another system which could have been operated much more economically and you would not have had the situation that you are facing today, where you have put your entire dependence upon one item and that is oil.

When electricity was first developed in your country it was produced by water power which was very cheap. But, as it became more and more in demand and began to spread out, then you had to use other sources of energy to produce your electricity which made it dependent upon other sources such as oil and coal. So, as the power that be, take control of these resources, a situation develops upon your planet where there is a struggle for control of these resources, and finally the control becomes mostly in the hands of a few. Then they can drive the prices up and claim a scarcity whether there be one or not and again a squeeze begins to come upon what you call the little man.

In your case it is not really the little man, it is more what you call the middle class, and the middle class of your civilization is going to feel the squeeze more and more as time goes on unless something is done to change it. But there does not seem to be anything visible at this time to change it. How much effort is being put forth to use other sources of power? How much effort is being put forth to develop some of the ideas that Mr. Tesla left that were not developed, were refused, rejected by those in power, such as his high frequency transmission of power. So you see, the civilization did not accept what was given on a level that it should have been accepted on, a level of what is good for all mankind and not what is good for a few. And this was Tesla's great disappointment. He could not understand why man would refuse such things, why they would not want to improve all mankind, why they would want to war with each other when it was not necessary. He left this planet in a very, very sad state of mind, very disillusioned in Earth man.

Now friends, I will spend a few more moments with you if you have a few questions, just a very few.

Questioner: Then probably Tesla, in that state of mind isn't about to volunteer to come again very soon to any other planet, is he?

Yaum: For this age Earth man has lost that chance.

Questioner: How long does it take for one of this nature to recover from a soul hurt like that in a volunteer mission?

Yaum: Well, It's not going to ruin his mind or anything of that kind, it's just that he was very much disillusioned.

Questioner: Then after he left this vibration, he was aware of all and his rightful place in the plan?

Yaum: Oh, yes.

Questioner: Yaum, where are the records of these ideas of his, the ones that were not developed and acted upon? Are they available?

Yaum: What few he left, which were not very many, were confiscated by your government and are held by them. As soon as he passed away, your FBI, I think you call it, Federal Bureau of Investigation, moved in quickly and confiscated all of the things that he had.

Questioner: It has been said that there are some in his own country. Is this true?

Yaum: Yes, there are a few in his own country. Not so much in his country as in England. England has a few of his records. He did not put things on paper. Many of the things that he patented were later produced by someone else. He was not particularly interested in producing any of his developments. As soon as he had finished one thing, he was immediately on to something else and he did not have any idea of producing or making money from this, other than to get money, to go on with his experiments. This was very difficult. for him as he was not used to operating under a monetary system so it was very difficult for him to try to work with all these ideas and try to think about money at the same time.

Questioner: Is there anything more that you would like to add to the class of last night that Clyde didn't recall?

Yaum: Well, I think that you will find in due time that you will understand the mind much better from these classes. This was a class to bring to your attention the difference between mind and brain and the power of minds and mind being able to use the physical body as an instrument to express through.

Questioner: We were discussing today about our terminology for mind. In your understanding is this Universal Mind, of which we are all a part of, is this the same thing, when you say an individual's mind?

Yaum: You are a part of Universal Mind as you are a part of the All. All creation is connected. It is all one in the sense that it is all connected. That is why you are able to tune into what is called Universal Mind, or Akashic records, or whatever terminology you might want to use. But also you have the individual. You are an individual and you have an individual mind. Yet, this is a part of the whole. Does this make sense to you?

Questioner: What about spirit? How would you define spirit in relation to mind?

Yaum: Well, all is mind and so spirit is mind. Spirit is a terminology that man has put on to another state of consciousness.

Questioner: Spirit, mind and body, those are 3 terms we use.

Yaum: Well, in reality they are all one. Spirit is a part of mind and mind is a part of spirit.

Questioner: Would they be different levels of vibrations? Would that apply?

Yaum: Not really because they are really one and the same. Your spirit is your mind but in the beginning there was only mind.

Questioner: Or creative spirit?

Yaum: Yes, creative spirit if you want to call it that, or creative mind if you want to call it that. It is all one and the same. As this comes into lower vibrations, then it must be clothed in something, so it comes into the realm of soul. And, as it comes into realms of lower vibrations, into the realm of soul, it must have a soul body, be clothed with soul.

Questioner: The Cayce people call it the Universal Unconscious, right?

Yaum: Well, there are many terminologies that have been developed by different ones, but when you boil it all down, it's one and the same.

Questioner: Thank you.

Questioner: Yaum, is there a procedure, a way we can tell ourselves to recall some of these classes?

Yaum: This has been given to you. For one thing, it is good to condition yourself in a suggestive way, just like you do in what you call a hypnotic suggestion. It would be similar to that, and the best time to give this suggestion is just before going to sleep. When you do it, give this suggestion to your inner self, just before you go to sleep when you are relaxed. The more relaxed you are, the more effect the suggestion will have.

Questioner: Do you suppose Tesla will be here in the New Age? Will we be able to have access to that information again and do it right this time?

Yaum: The information will be available. As you were given in your class the other night you will have in this New Age—and this is what you are being prepared for—a greater capacity to use your brain power. You will also have more refined body of a little higher vibration or density which will mean also that the tissues themselves will be of a higher density. But you will understand better how to use this, how to function through it and will be able to accomplish and understand things that you have not been able to in this lifetime.

You see, man had these abilities at one time. There have been civilizations upon your planet where this has been quite generally developed. But somehow man, through his ego, his self desire for power and recognition, abused these powers and began to control the minds of others who were not quite as strong. Thus, through his actions he brought about his downfall and much of this power and understanding was lost. Now he has to work back up to it. In the New Age this should be accomplished.

Questioner: Much more rapidly?

Yaum: Yes, but this will depend too upon mankind. He can still fall if he so desires but it is hoped that he will continue on, this time to perfection.

Questioner: Will there be communications, like the type you are using here tonight, in the New Age?

Yaum: You, will not need this type in the New Age. The veil will be much thinner. You will be able to communicate directly with other realms.

Questioner: Yaum, we do appreciate your greeting us last evening and coming again tonight.

Yaum: It has been my pleasure to come among you. If I have been of any service to you, I am happy.

As I leave you, I extend to each of you my most sincere love and blessings. May each of you, as you go forth, find new peace and love and may each of you be able to impart some of this love to another.

Go in peace my friends. Go in peace.

February 28, 1976

(Tesla and a Night Class.)

Clyde: Two weeks ago, I had a strong urge to read the Nicola Tesla book again, so I have been doing that every evening. I have been amazed at the impact this man had on our civilization. It is just mind-boggling. I think reading about Tesla prepared me for the class that we all attended in the sleep state last night. This class was about the mind, the use of the mind and how we are being prepared to use this power that we have. Tesla's mind was just inconceivable to me.

His development of the polyphase system that we have now, brought about the industrial revolution of this country. We haven't even yet begun to scratch the surface of the things that he developed and tried to give to mankind at that time, which they would not accept. Through this polyphase development, we have benefitted in that it has taken great loads of hard work and labor from the shoulders of man.

We now have neon tubes, radar, electronics, etc., which weren't used until a long time after he developed it. He was very sad that these things were used in World War II as this was not his purpose. He was totally dedicated to developing his ideas for the good of mankind. But our industrial complex and our politicians used them for war purposes. He tried to prevent this. He had developed another source of energy and offered it to the world, told them it could be used to prevent war. For any country regardless of how small it was, could use this and become impregnable. But he was laughed at.

I would like to read now a page from the book about him, "The Prodigal Genius, The Life of Nicola Tesla" by John J. O'Neill, as I think it will give you some idea of the magnitude of his mind.

There manifests itself in the fully developed being—Man—a desire mysterious, inscrutable and irresistible: to imitate nature, to create, to work himself the wonders he perceives. Inspired to this task, he searches, discovers and invents, designs and constructs, and covers with monuments of beauty, grandeur and awe, the star of his birth. He descends into the bowels of the globe to bring forth its hidden treasures and to unlock its immense imprisoned energies for his use. He invades the dark depths of the ocean and the azure regions of the sky. He peers into the innermost nooks and recesses of molecular structure and lays bare to his gaze, worlds infinitely remote. He subdues and puts to his service the fierce, devastating spark of Prometheus, the titanic forces of the waterfall, the wind and the tide. He tames the thundering bolt of Jove and annihilates time and space. He makes the great Sun itself his obedient, toiling slave. Such is his power and might that the heavens reverberate and the whole earth trembles by the mere sound of his voice.

What has the future in store for this strange being, born of a breath, of perishable tissue, yet immortal, with his powers fearful and divine? What magic will be wrought by him in the end? What is to be his greatest deed, his crowning achievement?

Long ago he recognized that all perceptible matter comes from a primary substance, or a tenuity beyond conception, filling all space, the Akasa or luminiferous ether, which is acted upon by the life-giving Prana or Creative Force, calling into existence, in never ending cycles, all things and phenomena. The primary substance, thrown into infinitesimal whirls of prodigious velocity, becomes gross matter; the force subsiding, the motion ceases and matter disappears, reverting to the primary substance. Can Man control this grandest, most awe-inspiring of all processes in nature? Can he harness her inexhaustible energies to perform all their functions at his bidding, more still cause them to operate simply by the force of his will?

If he could do this, he would have powers almost unlimited and supernatural. At his command, with but a slight effort on his part, old worlds would disappear and new ones of his planning would spring into being. He could fix, solidify and preserve the ethereal shapes of his imagining, the fleeting visions of his dreams. He could express all the creations of his mind on any scale, in forms concrete and imperishable. He could alter the size of this planet, control its seasons, guide it along any path he might choose through the depths of the Universe. He could cause planets to collide, and produce his suns and stars, his heat and light. He could originate and develop life in all its infinite forms.

To create and to annihilate material substance, cause it to aggregate in forms according to his desire, would be the supreme manifestation of the power of Man's mind, his most complete triumph over the physical world, his crowning achievement, which would place him beside his Creator, make him fulfill his ultimate destiny."

Tesla, in his eighties, was still manifesting the superman complex, and on even more elaborate a scale than when in his twenties. In his earlier dreams his visions were terrestrial, but in later life, they were extended to embrace the entire universe.

He developed the wireless many, many years before it was used, as he was unable to get the financial backing that he needed. He didn't keep records, as he kept everything in his mind as he received it in visions in every detail. When needed he could sit down and draw in great detail what he saw. Many of his developments are still not understood by engineers.

He could transmit power to the whole world through the Earth that could be picked up anywhere but the "money powers" would not develop it because they could not figure how to control or profit by it. He not only invented but brought out new principles for science to work with, to be used to advance and benefit mankind.

We have progressed from his ideas faster the last fifty years than we have in 2000 years. We can thank him for that and Westinghouse for buying all of his patents. His whole life was dedicated to helping mankind. He never married.

In reading this, I wondered how one man could do all this, could have such a powerful mind. It is just hard for me to conceive as he was so far ahead of our understanding, that he was accused of being eccentric, mad, etc., despite the fact that everything he did was one hundred percent successful.

In many ways, he was what we call psychic, but he did not understand it in this way, as he wanted to present his ideas in a strictly scientific way. I believe that he came here from another planet or realm to help us.

Yaum was in this meeting or class last night. He was not conducting it. I had a chance to speak with him for just a moment and I asked him if he would talk to us about Tesla, about the kind of man he was and give us some information about him. He said he would, so I think perhaps that he might do this tonight.

Now in this class, the use of the mind was stressed. Earthman so far has only been able to use a very small part of his brain and the brain is an instrument through which the mind works. They also taught that the brain was not the mind. It is used as an instrument through which the mind can alter the consciousness from one state to another.

At one time in past civilizations man had the capacity to use more of his brain power and so he could do greater things. Of course we know of some civilizations in the past that were farther advanced than we are today. They could tune into Universal Mind and bring scientific principles, ideas, down to a conscious level where they could be developed and this is what Tesla was doing. He could tune or peer into Universal Mind and find these principles and then work out a method to use them and put them to work for mankind. He did this when he developed electrical power and then went on to work in the high frequency field which made the polyphase field obsolete. But since we live in a profit system, these ideas were not accepted nor developed.

In this class, the subject of visualization was also discussed. Tesla described the things that he saw as being so real he thought he could touch them. His brain was able to project these ideas on to the retina of the eye and was then transmitted through the optical nerve to the part of the brain that received the sight and he saw it as if he were seeing it with the physical eye.

The Teachers said that the mind can create a vision of its own, as in day dreams, etc. But these are never quite as clear as Tesla described and they are more fleeting. It is also possible to have lengthy visions, such as David Wilkerson had. This is done by a Master Mind concentrating ideas and then projecting them to the brain, directing them to the optic and auditory nerves of an individual, who then sees and hears them clearly. A strong mind can completely control a weaker mind if they choose to do so.

Everything that has happened in other lifetimes or in the past, even millions of years ago, is still in our minds. If a mind is highly developed it can recall these things instantly. Evidently Tesla had this ability as he could recall any of his inventions and make complete drawings of them. I do not believe that there is anyone on this planet now that can do this as he did.

Well, that is about all that I can recall about the class, except that there were many, many people there of all nationalities. ♣