Teacher: Beloved of my being, I come to you in the light of the great spirit of creation.

I come to you by special permission through this instrument. I have watched the growth of some of you here, and am greatly interested in your progress. I come to you to bring a word of encouragement. In gathering together as you do in an effort to grow in love and understanding between you, you shall develop a new and deeper understanding. As you realize, there is power in numbers, and this power multiplies rapidly when those of like mind and like purpose are gathered together. If you shall keep your motives high and your purpose definite, your accomplishments shall come with great rapidity. For as you learn to know your own being, great revelations shall come to you.

Much interest has been shown by all of you in receiving truth and understanding. We who are interested in helping you, are with you much more than you realize in thought. If you will try to sharpen your awareness, we can be of greater value to you. Try at all times to be aware of all things, and especially of those inner feelings, those urges that appear to come from somewhere far within, for these are important in your experiences. These great urges that cometh from within, are the things that will guide you on the path of understanding. Be aware of every experience that you have and attempt to draw from it, knowledge, wisdom and understanding. Each of you have within you the power to tap that great universal knowledge, that storehouse that contains all knowledge and all wisdom. It is yours to use. It is your God given privilege. It is up to you to claim it. You, my beloved friends, hold within yourself the power of the universe. You have only to claim it, to claim your sonship with creation, with your creator, for no man shall receive lest he come to the realization of his own being.

At this point you hold only a small conception of your rightful place in Creation. Let this conception broaden that you might be able to receive more and more of his truth, of his love and of his understanding. It is all there for you to use. Knowledge must spread fast on planet Earth, and to the children of light who are given the understanding now, shall find a great responsibility placed upon them at a later date. So, beloved ones, pray that you might be able to accept this responsibility and handle it with wisdom, with understanding and with a great love for all mankind and all creation.

My peace I leave with you.

Goodnight, beloved friends. ✿
