Yaum: Good evening to you my friends.

It is my pleasure once more to be with you. It has been sometime. I have been occupied with several conferences and missions that required my entire attention. So, I am happy to be able to spend a few moments with you this evening. Since there are only a few of you, if you can agree upon some particular subject you should like me to share my understanding with you on, I should be happy to try to help you.

Questioner: How does one become aware of inspirations?

Yaum: You see, awareness is something that you have to cultivate. You grow in awareness by constantly cultivating it. In other words, you try continuously to be aware of everything. It is amazing how much we miss by not having cultivated our awareness, not only in inspirations and guidance but in things about us. It is amazing when you really begin to become aware of how much you have been missing. Is this not so, my friends? We often find that we are missing a great deal for passing it by. We do not even see it, because we become too concerned with our little self, you see. Everyone has inspirations, receives guidance, but when it comes, they are so unaware that when it passes through their minds, they slightly notice it, that there is no reaction. So you see, it is just a matter of cultivating this in your consciousness, just like you would with anything else. Do I make myself clear?

Questioner: Could you be a little more specific?

Yaum: I do not see how I could be more specific unless you want me to define awareness.

Questioner: How do you recognize whether it is an inspiration or not?

Yaum: An inspiration is nothing more than an urge. It is something that comes to mind, and you will find that it stands out above the normal thinking, the normal thoughts that get through the mind, if you are aware.

Many people have inspirations, but they are so unaware that it is nothing more than just a passing thought to them. But, to those of you who are seeking truth and understanding, who have cultivated this sort of thing, you know the difference between the ordinary thought and an urge to react to something, or to do something.

Questioner: Yaum, as we spoke before, we have to check back and recall how these inspirations were.

Yaum: Often these inspirations came sharply and quickly. They have been referred to as first impressions. I am sure some of your teachers a long time ago have emphasized the importance of following first impressions, but often people, you see, start to rationalize, they argue with themselves, and soon they have talked themselves out of it, you see, because to them at the moment, it did not seem much to their intellectual thinking.

Questioner: Yaum, I'm very fascinated by this higher realm of consciousness referred to as Cosmic Consciousness. I wondered if you could give us a little discourse, give us a picture of this. There are many writings concerning this, but I know it doesn't take place in our own area here, it's in a higher plane or something. I wish you could fill us in on this.

Yaum: This perhaps is a terminology, cosmic consciousness. This has been referred to many times. In my understanding and in my thinking, I would say that, cosmic consciousness is an ever evolving consciousness that takes in greater knowledge, greater understanding, you see, which extends beyond what your consciousness would consist of here.

Now this can extend as far as you are able to extend it, you see. There is no beginning or no end to consciousness. The term "cosmic" would indicate inclusiveness of the great cosmos, would it not? Therefore, this is so far reaching, that I am sure it would be difficult for anyone to draw a picture for you of complete cosmic consciousness, for as we grow, it becomes ever larger. It is ever expanding, you see, like the Universe itself. So, in my understanding, my way of thinking, or at my present capability to view this thing, I could not see the end of cosmic consciousness. It would extend to the far corners of the Universe which would take in the life span or life's civilizations. It is difficult to find the terminology here to express this. I believe that one of your teachers expressed this one time. I have heard it repeated, that although they, their cosmic consciousness, we will call this, their understanding is quite extensive, yet, they realize that their concept, their understanding of the entire picture is only slight, you see. Yet, they are perhaps thousands of years ahead of Earth people in their consciousness.

Questioner: That would mean Yaum, that regardless of what sphere of consciousness you are on, there would still be a cosmic beyond that of which you did not understand?

Yaum: Yes, this is correct, for the truth or the ultimate in truth stands way beyond any of us today; we are all growing.

Questioner: Then we should concentrate on accomplishing what we are able to accomplish in this sphere which we are in, is that correct?

Yaum: We must try always to get the best understanding possible in the place where we stand today. For as we master what is here for us to learn, then we are able to be ready to take another step forward, you see, and this goes on and on, where it ends I do not know. Does this, my friend, does this ...

Questioner: Yes, I think that it leaves it out there for me to expand into, yes.

Yaum: You have so much room to expand, you have nothing to worry about there, my friend. You can expand for many millions of years.

Questioner: I believe Yaum, that it is the terminology that we use when we talk of cosmic consciousness, and I refuse to differentiate between a narrow consciousness of our everyday life and immediately after we die, probably the next plane. This is where usually 90% of the people interested even in metaphysics is centered and then when they have, when somebody comes out with a far reaching thought, he says, get under cosmic consciousness, the complete cosmic consciousness, they mean nothing by this, but extend your horizons into other spheres that are far, far beyond this because you are limiting yourself. That's probably what they are trying to indicate when they urge one to get interested in cosmic consciousness.

Yaum: The terminology's oftentimes confuse people, you see. Actually, there is no limit to consciousness. Perhaps I do not particularly care for the word cosmic at all. I should like to, for myself, just say consciousness, because the Truth Is, and I can only attempt to gather truth to the best of my ability at the time.

Questioner: I wonder if you, Yaum, could tell us a little bit or if you were aware of some of the influences or the happenings, or the effects of the nuclear shots in the high atmosphere that our country just set off?

Yaum: We are aware of what has happened, and all of these tests are adding to the pollution of your atmosphere. One of the shots made recently to explode the bomb in the stratosphere was destroyed. One was destroyed. The first one was destroyed, deliberately destroyed by Beings from outer space. The second one was a malfunction of the mechanism. The third one was allowed to go. Now, your scientists concerned with this experiment, were aware that the first one was somehow destroyed, not by their own hands, and this was done as a warning. For when it disintegrated, it disintegrated so completely, in full view, that it practically turned to a cloud of dust yet there was no detonation of the nuclear.

Questioner: Did that concern the fallout?

Yaum: There was no detonation of the nuclear device.

Questioner: Why didn't they do that to the third one?

Yaum: Your people were determined to make this experiment. They were warned. They have been warned in several ways, yet, they are determined.

Questioner: Did they realize the warnings came from Beings from outer space. Did they realize the source of this warning?

Yaum: Perhaps they would not admit this, even to themselves. Yet, they were mystified, they could not explain, in their hearts they know, But those who are intent on doing something that they feel will make them great, make them be recognized, do not even admit to themselves that they could be wrong. This did a great deal of damage to your atmosphere, and your people will suffer from it, as they will from all of these things. Perhaps, in time, enough people will become concerned to do something to stop the madness, but it appears at this time that before they are going to get concerned enough to do something, they are going to bring a great deal of suffering upon your civilization. It seems that Earth Man, by and large, has to see the results before he will believe it. The evidence is already there, but it does not yet seem to be strong enough for most of your people to become concerned. Perhaps they shall have to wait until many thousands of deformed children are born and thousands of people die from the results, before they can become concerned enough to do something about it.

Questioner: Yaum, I feel as though we haven't done our part. I mean though, people do believe that this is harmful, it just seems as though there is so little that we have done or can do about it.

Yaum: This is true, because your people are confused. On one side they have a group of leaders, scientists, telling them one thing, and over here they are telling them another; they are confused. They do not know who to believe. And until some of the people who are advocating and carrying on these things begin to see the results and become frightened themselves, perhaps then, they will want to stop it, if it is not already too late. But this, my friends, is madness, is madness for people to allow themselves to be destroyed in this way.

Questioner: People are hypnotized into believing, and I think this started way back when Thomas Jefferson warned us that when we lost sight or lost contact with our representatives, then the negative powers would take over, and because we have multiplied in all of our cities, we don't know our representatives and don't make it our business to know them, and therefore we believe that we are helpless and we haven't the power to really control things.

Yaum: This is true, and your people have become as sheep; they want to be led. They do not want to think for themselves. They want to look to authority for their information. To allow those in power to do their thinking for them and give them the answers. They have become mentally lazy, and this, my friends, is the downfall of any civilization when it no longer thinks for itself and allows a few individuals to do their thinking.

Questioner: I think it would be rather presumptuous that the same kind of people that do this, try to go out in outer space and visit the moon and other constellations, we certainly aren't ready in that sense.

Yaum: No, but there is one point here that I should like to make. This on the other hand could be, the salvation of your civilization. If a group of people should happen to reach an inhabited planet and return with information they would receive, and this information were made public, this could be the turning point of your civilization, for the information will be so astounding to your masses, it will cause some repercussions, but on the other hand, it could be the turning point of your civilization.

Questioner: Do, I see right that in some of the stories that came back from the astronauts that were orbiting the earth, that they had experiences that were not told in the press?

Yaum: This is correct. They did not tell all.

Questioner: But they told all to the authorities, though not told to the press?

Yaum: They told all to a few of them, but there were some that were not made public. But this was not anything of the astounding information that would be obtained were they to land upon an inhabited planet.

Questioner: Well our ... the first intent is to go and land on the moon. Now, would they find on the side that we cannot see, on the so-called dark side, would they find habitation there?

Yaum: No, the moon landing would not be too important, but given time and perhaps it will not be too long, for your space program is being helped a great deal by those from other planets, unbeknownst to your people, because they are anxious that this happen, but it has to come through your own people, you see, through their efforts.

Questioner: Yes, I understand that.

Yaum: So they are giving them all of the help they can without it being known, to try to speed up, you see, this program, for they realize to that this can be the saving of your civilization.

Questioner: Yaum, will they reach another planet through their present means of development in the space program, rapidly, and so forth? Is this possible?

Yaum: I suppose it is possible. This, I am not a scientist, I am not a physicist, but to my understanding they are developing other powers, your government already has experimental craft using other energies.

Questioner: Yaum, in this idea to try to do something about the hectic situation. In your opinion what would be the best way that we could be effective in our efforts to stop it?

Yaum: Well, you see, there are many ways, the main thing is, people themselves have to become aware of the danger of these things. They have to become aware of this, and, you see, that is what we were speaking of a few moments ago, but they are confused. They do not know who to believe. But, for myself, I would not hesitate to declare my beliefs to anyone of the harm and the danger of this thing and of the sickness of this civilization and the true answer to the problem your civilization faces. This is something people are going to have to realize, because it is the only solution to your problems.

So, sooner or later, they will either have to realize these things and to act upon them, or your civilization will no longer exist.

People do not need to be afraid to say these things, express them. Does it matter if I am believed or not? At least I have planted a seed in another man's consciousness, and perhaps it shall take root and grow. This is being done by many and the realization is gradually taking root. The people are beginning to realize and much more in some of the other countries than in your country, but even in your country, there are people who are coming out and demonstrating. You may say this is foolish, but at least they are making their feelings known, and more and more people will join them. For until the leaders of the world are brought to realize that the people do not want these things, they are going to demand that they be stopped, they will continue, for when enough people express themselves, they will listen, for they know that there is power in numbers. No man has ever acquired such great power that he could not be overthrown by the people when they become enough concerned.

Now, my friends, I have taken enough of your time, unless you have something you especially want to speak of at this time, I will take my leave.

Questioner: I wanted to ask you, are the scientists beginning to realize what they were doing, that they were doing damage?

Yaum: Many of your scientists do. You see, your scientists are falling into two groups, one who says "Yes," one who says "No." That is what confuses the people. There is a group who feel that they must find out these things, they must develop this power, they must become great in the eyes of their civilization. They do not think in terms of humanity. No, they do not care. They think only of themselves, by accomplishing this I have become great. Some of them have even stated that they know that many people will suffer from this, "Well, so what? So what?" they say. In order to develop the civilization, to move forward, someone must suffer. This is not so, my friends, this is not so. For science developed properly by proper people does not need to cause anyone to suffer. It is only by those who are bent on power, who live for the glory of themselves that this seems good.

Questioner: How much push is there behind the money power and the controlling interest of this development?

Yaum: A great deal, for without this, it could not be done. They could stop it tomorrow by refusing funds. Where would your government get the money to finance it? They cannot do it from taxation, because they go farther in debt, and this also is madness.

Questioner: Then the same power is back of the new development that they could possibly use to go to an inhabited planet?

Yaum: Oh yes, it all comes from the same pack, But you see, they also can learn and will, They will realize at a certain point that there are greater than they, and they will have to humble themselves a little bit. You see, there are those who take the attitude there can be no greater than "I," can be no one who has greater understanding than "I"—but this also can change.

My friends, it has been my very great pleasure to spend this time with you and to share with you my understanding and to have you share yours with me. I should like to extend to each of you, my love, my blessings and may the Peace, the love and the understanding of all the great Ones be invoked upon each of you.

Go in Peace, my friends. ☸
