Yaum: Good evening to you, my friends.

It is good to come among you again and to know that I am welcome. I happened to be spending some time with my friend, Anthon, and since you were meeting I decided I would drop in and spend a few moments with you. Shall we just have a friendly little chat tonight, as usual?

Questioner: Yes, we would like that.

Questioner: One of our group had an unusual impression while viewing the moon last night. Would you say this had a particular significance, and if so, what it might be?

Yaum: Well, since I was not here, I do not know exactly what you saw. Perhaps it was something being shown to you for a purpose, or it could be that you were able to focus in on something that normally you would not see.

Questioner: Could this be due to the fact that I have, been meditating quite a bit more than usual, and am perhaps more sensitive?

Yaum: Yes, this could help to open your faculties. After spending a good bit of time in meditation and concentration on subjects of a spiritual nature, one's centers open up temporarily sometimes and one might see whatever was there, whether it be positive or negative in nature.

Questioner: We have been reading Trevor James's book, "They Live In the Sky," which contains the photographs that he took many years ago. It certainly enlarges upon the things that you told us about.

Yaum: Yes, as we have told you many times, there is perhaps more that you don't see with the physical eye than there is that you do see. The world about you and space, itself, is full of life in other dimensions which are not visible to the normal physical sight. However, as the vibration of change takes place and you become more and more exposed to the new vibrations, the veil will get thinner and many people will begin to see things that they have not seen before. Some will be very beneficial and inspiring, while others will not be.

There are always your two elements, you see, the positive and the negative.

Questioner: Are you familiar with a community called Findhorn, which is located in the British Isles?

Yaum: Yes, I know of this area. This community was one of the places chosen to demonstrate to people the power and the reality of the elementals or nature spirits, and how they can control and encourage the growth of plant life. It also demonstrates how man can work harmoniously with these spirits with results that are beneficial for both.

Questioner: We were especially impressed with the way in which the people there live and work so harmoniously with each other in contrast with the rest of our civilization.

Yaum: Yes, this is another thing that is being demonstrated there, and of course, they are learning from the elementals and the elementals are learning from them. They are learning to live in harmony with all things. This is really the thing that man must learn, to live in harmony with his brother and with all of nature about him. When all is in harmony, everyone benefits. Life becomes more beautiful because everything is in harmony. The problems that have arisen in your civilization have all been caused by the lack of harmony.

Questioner: One of the founders of Findhorn is reported to have channeled a message from Jesus in which He told the people there that it would not be necessary to store up food for the times ahead, but that they had only to stay in the Light and they would be taken care of. I was a little surprised at this as we have been repeatedly told that we should have a food storage program to prepare for the times ahead when food will be scarce.

Yaum: He was referring to their particular situation, not the world as a whole.

Questioner: It seems unfortunate that this went out to many groups in other places, as the channel is being quoted as a support for the opinion that it is not necessary for people to store food.

Yaum: Your people grab at things out of context and they interpret them the way they want, to suit their own purposes. This is due to a lack of reasoning and also to relieve themselves of responsibility.

Questioner: How I wish we could have a community here with the level of consciousness they demonstrate in Findhorn.

Yaum: You could if you wanted to develop this and work in this manner. As I said, this was especially set up as a demonstration of what can be done. You see, the land there is not good land for raising vegetation, but by cooperating with the elementals they have had tremendous success.

Questioner: Is the area around (name) going to be one of the places where the New Age people will gather together?

Yaum: It could be. There are many places of this nature, but I think people are being misled about many of these. There are springing up in many areas, places called survival camps. Most of these are being established and led by misled people.

Questioner: The fact that (name) left an area where the vortex and the vibrations there would have aided in the development of a center for New Age people, raises the question in my mind as to why he has chosen to go to such a barren area.

Yaum: This is not really a barren area if you have water there. As far as raising food and other developments go, it is really more desirable. If you can get the water there, you can raise food the year round. I think people get carried away with the ideas of vortexes and that sort of thing. A lot of the vortexes are only in their minds.

Questioner: Yes, but we were told that in the area around (name) there had been many sacred places in the past, and the vibrations would be very beneficial.

Yaum: Yes, this is true. There are many of these places that have had high spiritual development in the past. They have been locations of groups or organizations of great spiritual value that will again be established in approximately the same areas.

Questioner: It would seem that some groups are getting a second chance, as it were, since they left the (name) area.

Yaum: That (name) area did not work out for that type of thing, and it remains to be seen what will happen with the other location. It will depend a lot on the people who try to develop it and the way that they try to do it.

Questioner: Would you continue with what you were going to say about the vortexes?

Yaum: There are many vortexes, which are mostly fields of magnetic energy. One does not necessarily have to be in a vortex to be successful in establishing a spiritual group or foundation.

Questioner: Are these vortexes beneficial spiritually?

Yaum: Some are. Some are nothing more than magnetic vortexes that are established in certain areas due to the mineral content of the Earth itself and its relation to the atmosphere. Some of these have been photographed. Some of these energy fields are created by equipment from other civilizations that has been buried and is still active.

Questioner: Into which category would the famous "Mystery Spot" near Santa Cruz, California fit?

Yaum: I am not familiar with that one, but there are many of these throughout the Earth.

Questioner: There is an opening in the Earth up near Paradise, California where I experienced the strongest sense of evil. Do you think this was just my imagination?

Yaum: No, not necessarily. This could be something of a negative nature. It could be a field of energy or vibration that is coming from the dark forces which may be working in that area or below that area. I do not like to get into this too much because it seems to put fear into people's hearts, but you do have this element of darkness that dwells deep within your Earth, and they are of a different vibrational material than you are.

Questioner: Does this same group maintain a base on the Moon?

Yaum: It is my understanding that these negative forces do have a base there, yes.

Questioner: Do the positive forces have one there also?

Yaum: No. The positive forces may land there at times to keep track of the others and to keep them in line, so to speak, but they do not have a permanent base there.

Questioner: Do you know of any particular area in Washington that would be especially conducive to establishing a New Age type of community?

Yaum: I do not know of any particular spot, but I maintain that this can be done most anywhere, if you have the right cooperation and harmony among those who wish to establish this. There have been many of these types of organizations attempted. Most have failed because they could not live in harmony. Always some want to be great and have the others be less. This does not create harmony. Always jealousy and friction arise and they fall by the wayside.

Questioner: Do places that have been set aside for retreats, prayer groups, and other activities of a spiritual nature, gradually take on an aura of peace and serenity?

Yaum: As these places are used for those purposes, they take on a vibration of that nature that becomes permanent.

Questioner: What if these places are located upon fault lines?

Yaum: That does not affect the vibrations there.

Questioner: I would suppose the people there would be guided to go elsewhere in the event of an impending earthquake, would they not?

Yaum: Well, you see, you put great value on the physical body, and it is really of little value. But, if it was not their time to pass out of the physical, I am sure they would be guided to leave.

Questioner: The recent delays that they had in getting "Mars shot" launched caused me to wonder if the Martians were trying to prevent this exploration from taking place?

Yaum: No, I do not believe so. I think it was just mechanical difficulties. They will get it off, but I don't think that they will learn much.

Questioner: Are Martians of a vibration that would register on the photographic equipment that will be used?

Yaum: No, they would not show up on it. If they used certain types of film and filters they might pick up something, but it would not show up the way it would if you took pictures of your vibration here. They will learn a few things, but they will not learn all of the truth. As long as man insists on dealing entirely in the vibration that he lives in and ignores the beyond, he will never accomplish much in gaining great knowledge of what is beyond. He has to come into a new way of thinking and a new way of observing other than your third dimension. In the New Age he will. Your hardheaded scientists will be passed onto another place where they can carry on with their hardheaded ideas until they eventually learn their errors.

Questioner: From what you have told us of Communist China at the present time, they are, in many ways better off today than they were under their former regime, is this also true of Nationalist China?

Yaum: Both countries are living better. They do not have the freedom of expression they would like to have, nor are they able to do all the things that they would like to do. But, as far as their living and working conditions are concerned, they are better off than they were under the old regime. You cannot keep people in complete slavery forever, so the communists had to do something for the people. They have improved their standard living to some degree over what they had, but it is still not easy.

Questioner: There was a time when the Chinese were far more alert and alive to the spiritual truths than the rest of the world. Are there still groups of this nature there?

Yaum: Oh yes, there are some very advanced occult students in China, as there are in all countries.

Questioner: Are they able to exercise a positive influence there?

Yaum: Yes, and in many ways their religion is more advanced than some of the Christian religions. Yet, they are not as dogmatic in some of their beliefs. They are a little broader and do not pin everything down to the third dimension, as most of your Christian religions do.

Questioner: I am constantly amazed at the success in using the healing energies demonstrated by people, such as Dr. Le Shan and some others, who do not appear to have pursued the spiritual path. Yet, others who are seeking spiritual understanding seem not to be able to handle this energy effectively. Is this just a lack of practice on their part?

Yaum: A lack of practice and study. The healers have studied these energies and how they work, and they have learned to use them to some degree. That is all any great healer does. He knows how to use and manipulate the laws that will make the energies work. Your science is learning some about this, although they have merely scratched the surface.

Questioner: Are the deep breathing techniques, which Anthon and other teachers gave us back in Detroit, helpful as a start in developing an awareness of these energies?

Yaum: All of these things are helpful in improving your own awareness and purifying your own body. To be a channel for these energies you need a good physical body in good shape, and these techniques will help to improve your health. You have a lot of information on this. It is a matter of practicing and using it, drawing these energies to you and directing them. What is called Kriya by the Yogis, is a very effective way to get these energies flowing through the spine. It is mostly a matter of discipline and concentration. One must do these things systematically, diligently, and sincerely. It cannot be a hit and miss type of thing.

Now, my friends, I have stayed my time. It has been my pleasure to spend this time with you. I wish to extend my gratitude for being welcomed into your household and coming among you. I should like to extend to each of you my most sincere blessings and my love, and I would ask all of the Great Ones to pour forth their blessings upon you.

May you go forth in Peace, Peace, Peace. Go in Peace. ☸
