Yaum: Good evening to you, my friends.

It is my pleasure to come among you again, and I should like to give a special greeting to our brother and sister here, who only get to visit with us occasionally. We are happy to have you with us on this occasion. Now, my friends, what would you like to talk about?

Questioner: How have things been going for you since China experienced the great earthquake recently? We have been praying for you and your work.

Yaum: I have been very busy in this country in which I am based. We had what you would call a great disaster there. You were aware of it through your news media. The Chinese people are a somewhat different people from the other races. They do not like to accept charity or help from the outside unless it is absolutely necessary. They felt that they could handle the situation and they have handled it very well.

It was a great shock to the nation and a great disaster. Many people lost their lives, and the property damage was much more extensive than you realize. You people have not been close to something like that, and it is difficult for you to realize the impact that it has upon the people. Yet, these things sometimes bring out the best in people.

There were many, many heroic events that took place, yet, you hear very little about them. They seem to accept this as a duty or a responsibility to react in this way. Everybody worked together to handle the situation, and I must say that it was done very well. It was handled very much better than it was in other areas where this has happened and where great aid was sent in by your country and others. There, the situations were not handled nearly as well, and the people did not benefit from the help that was sent to them. In other words, it was very poorly organized.

The Chinese people are a great people. You hear a great deal against their regime there, yet, the Chinese people themselves would not agree with that. They are, as a whole, much better off today than they were under the old regime of the monarchy and the landlords. The common man in China today has a much better life than he had under the old regime. This is not to say that their form of government is perfect. It has its faults and its weaknesses, yet, it has done a great deal to bring about a better life for the common man.

Questioner: We do not hear about their being taught spiritual truths there. Is this being done?

Yaum: They have their spiritual groups, some very, very commendable spiritual groups. You do not hear about this for it is not publicized. The government does not encourage this sort of thing, yet, it does not forbid it either. They may have their worship. They go to their temples.

There are many groups of highly developed spiritual people in China who are working to improve conditions and to bring about a better way. The old is passing there now and the new will take over. There will be changes. Some will be for the better and perhaps, some not so good, but at least they are managing their own affairs and progressing. They do not care for the interference of the outside world telling them how to do it. This is as it should be because no nation has the right to force a different way of life upon another. They must make their own choice. There has been much too much of this in the past, and your country is perhaps as guilty as any in attempting to do this. They must realize that other nations must be free to progress as they see fit and as they desire, and they must not try to inflict their way of life upon them.

Each race of people, each nation, has its problems to overcome and they alone can do it. You can aid in certain ways if you are asked for aid, but you are not to force your way of life upon another. This goes down even to the individual. This is the problem in your religious organizations today and has been for centuries. They want to force their way upon everyone else. If you do not accept their way and follow their way, "You are not going to enter the Kingdom of Heaven, that is all." You cannot do it, because they have the only way. This you hear from many of your religious groups.

Questioner: How would one apply this principle in guiding one's children?

Yaum: Children need to be guided and instructed, but here again, you cannot force things on children, either. They must have a certain amount of freedom to follow their own dictates, but they do need guidance, and this must be given in the right way, gently, with love and understanding. When you try to force a child, he rebels immediately. He is not going to do it, you see. This is true with adults also. When you try to force something upon someone they immediately throw up a wall and you cannot go through it, so they have to want it.

Questioner: We are very interested in learning about the various Brotherhoods and their work. Are you a member of a Brotherhood?

Yaum: Yes, I am a member of a Brotherhood and am assigned to a mission at which I have been working for many, many years. From time to time my work has been changed. I do not claim to be one of the very high hierarchy. I am a worker in the field, trying to serve my fellow man. I try to serve to the very best of my capacity and wherever I am asked to serve, I always try to do my best, but this is only one of my missions.

Questioner: Has there been an increasing number of people from the Brotherhood coming to work among Earth people in recent years, and if so, will this continue to increase?

Yaum: Yes, in the past fifty years there has been quite an increase. The increase has been greater in the past twenty-five years because of the great changeover of the Age that is taking place. There is more need for service here at this time and so there are more here serving. This great changeover started back quite a number of years ago. There is an overlap there which is called the cusp. You are past the center of this cusp now, as your old Age is rapidly drawing to a close and your New Age is taking over more and more. As there is a greater need for service now, there have been a greater number of the brothers and the sisters who have come to serve. They come from different Brotherhoods according to their missions. Each branch of the Brotherhood has its mission, its service to perform and there are many, many phases of these things. Even your industrial revolution was aided by the Brotherhood. They bring you knowledge and ways of improving your system, although it was hoped that your people would handle it in a much better way than they did. But this is the way that it sometimes develops, you see. Man will learn through this. He has made mistakes and failed in many ways, but eventually he will learn through these things, although he will suffer much as a result of them.

Questioner: Yaum, if it is not too presumptuous to ask, are you a member of the Silent Brotherhood?

Yaum: The Silent Brotherhood has several branches and I am associated with one of the branches of this Brotherhood. There are many orders that are associated in this way. The one that I am associated with is of a special Order which I cannot reveal to you.

Comment: Yaum, years ago in Detroit we were privileged to have met a man who said that he had studied with you in the Mystery School in South America. So, even way back then we felt very grateful to have teachers from the Brotherhood with us. We want you to know how very much we have been blessed by your Brotherhood and your visits with us over the years.

Yaum: We are only trying to serve and to help you in any way that we can, although we realize that we cannot help you except by pointing the way. We cannot do anything for you, for you must learn to stand on your own two feet and to conquer all of the things that have to be conquered yourself. This is what makes you strong. A child who has someone do everything for him is a weak child. He has a rough time in life for he has not learned to stand on his own two feet.

Questioner: Yaum, will we ever use the tides for energy instead of atomic energy as we are now?

Yaum: Yes, this will come about in the New Age. It has been done in the past in other Ages by other civilizations and it would be a much cleaner and cheaper way of doing it. Some of the initial construction would be quite expensive, perhaps, in your way of calculating. But, once it is installed, it is very cheap to run, much like your water power that you have from waterfalls, you see. It would only be a matter of upkeep of equipment, which would not be difficult.

Questioner: Wouldn't it be far less dangerous than atomic energy?

Yaum: Oh yes. Man will rue the day that he has ever used and developed the atomic energy plants. The handling of the waste material, itself, would be a reason for not doing it, because this in itself, is very dangerous. But your nation and your civilization, by and large, have become so power conscious that they see great profits in this, as in the mining of uranium. The same money interests that control the oil and coal energies are now taking over the mining of uranium and, of course, they have to have a place to sell it. They are much more interested in that, than they are in the safety of mankind.

Somehow or another, in the mad pursuit of power, man loses his feeling of responsibility to mankind and to himself. You would think that even if only for their own safety, they would be concerned, but they see only power. So, they try to promote the thing that will give them the power.

There are other ways that energy could be produced that would be very economical and safe, yet these same energies can be used for even greater destruction. This is why this knowledge is not being brought to man of Earth, because he cannot handle it. He immediately wants to try to use it for destruction. Some of these powers are wonderful powers. They are free. They can be gotten very, very cheaply, but man, if he does not have the background or the foundation on which to stand and to handle these things, would destroy your planet. Eventually, when man has realized his oneness with all Creation and his responsibility to it, he will be given this knowledge. Many of the people of Earth today do have this realization and have had it for centuries, yet, the madness of others has not allowed them to use this knowledge. They know and realize that it cannot be used so long as men think as they do.

Questioner: Do you know anything about the mysterious Legionnaire's Disease?

Yaum: I have heard about this. It is not something that I have had the time to follow or go into, but I have heard on good authority that this was not an accident, but more of an experiment, you might say. I do not know by whom.

Questioner: What do you think of these mass inoculations for the Swine Flu?

Yaum: Do you realize how many millions of dollars are involved in this, who is paying for it, and who is to gain?

Questioner: The taxpayers are paying for it. Are the drug companies promoting this?

Yaum: Who else would have started it? The Swine Flu that they are referring to is the one that swept your nation back around 1914, and has not occurred since on that scale, and there have been no vaccinations of this kind promoted. There are many ways to make a dollar. Now, if you don't have an epidemic, they can say it was because of the vaccine. If you do have one, they still have their money.

Questioner: Do you think that these vaccinations are safe?

Yaum: I do not like to advise anyone against something like this. All I can say is that I would not have it. They will not do this to me.

Questioner: Yes, but you have a healthy body, Yaum.

Yaum: They would not do it to me, no matter what kind of body I had. It is only injecting more foreign matter, and if I take proper care of that body, eat the proper food and keep strong, I will not need to worry about the Swine Flu.

Questioner: Yes, but how about those of us who don't take the best care of our bodies and eat the proper food, etc.?

Yaum: Well, this is a choice you have to make.

Questioner: What about those types of vaccinations that have wiped out many of the serious diseases in the world?

Yaum: Yes, some of these things have been good. Each must make his own decision about these things. Some of these things are very good. Some are worthless. Many of your diseases have been controlled in this way, but there are other things that enter into this too, such as better sanitation and better care of people. Diseases have less chance of spreading then. Typhoid used to be a very prominent and dreaded disease, but, perhaps the plumber did more to eliminate that than the doctors did.

So, there are many things that enter in and perhaps many of these inoculations that have been developed have been good. However, the one that they used to give for diphtheria was very dangerous. It could cause heart damage. I think it is seldom used anymore. So you see, while some of these may be good, others may be bad.

Questioner: Do you have any comment to make about our political situation?

Yaum: No, I do not have any special comments to make about it. Your presidential election, I feel, is going to take some rather odd turns. It can topple either way and it doesn't really matter too much which way it topples.

Questioner: Yaum, do you think that UFOs might land this year as some have been predicting?

Yaum: This I would say is doubtful. I do not know all of their plans, and even their plans change from time to time. I do not know of any special plans for this. This is not to say that it will not be, but not to my knowledge.

Questioner: Does it still look as though the government will make some announcements concerning the existence of UFOs?

Yaum: This will depend upon events. Events will have the greatest influence upon what they will release, and it looks like they may be forced to release some information concerning this.

And, now, my friends, if I have been of any help to you, I am happy. As I leave I wish to extend my most sincere love and blessings. May each of you progress rapidly on the path that you have chosen, and may all of the Great Ones pour forth their love and their blessings upon each of you.

Go in peace, my friends. Go in peace. ☸
