Teacher: Peace be with each of you, my friends.

It gives me great pleasure to come among you in this manner and to have the opportunity to say to you a few words. I know that in your minds are many questions concerning the whys and wherefores of life, as you see it. Perhaps, to many of you there seems to be great injustice in life, and I understand how this would appear. Yet, I say to you that man will always be dealt with justly.

In the times that are ahead I am sure that you will see exactly what I refer to. For, if there comes about upon your planet some of the conditions that have been described as possibilities, the degree of these possibilities depend entirely upon Earth man, and what he chooses to do from here on. Your creator is a loving and just creator and it is not his desire to have to, through his laws, destroy man, nor does he. The judgment that will be reaped upon mankind will be exactly that which he has brought upon himself, and this can be to whatever degree he chooses through his own doing and thinking. Perhaps the word destroying may be misinterpreted here, but I refer to this, at this time, only as a civilization.

These same souls have come up through at least three civilizations upon your earth and reached a point wherein they could have either developed into a civilization, such as exists on many other planets in your system. But they chose to bring destruction upon themselves, and return again to the state of caveman living and understanding, and start again to climb the ladder of becoming a race of men.

Today, due to the moving of your solar system, it will not be possible for the present race to repeat again upon this planet, its same pattern. You have been told that he who is righteous has nothing to fear, and this be true.

For, those who have been sincere and have truly attempted to live a life of just existence and have had love for their fellow man and have put forth their efforts to raise their civilization in spiritual understanding, are going to observe, from a vantage point, exactly how man has dealt justness to himself. For, those whom I have just mentioned will not pass through the great suffering that will come to those who have misused their fellow men, and violated the laws of their creator ruthlessly, with no regard, and no love for their fellow man. You will know then what is meant by the "Day of Judgment or Justice." Then will you understand, then will you know that those whom you thought were reaping great benefits from their wrong doings; you will know then the meaning of these things.

Earth man considers himself as having reached great heights in wisdom and in scientific knowledge, by gaining control of a few powers or energies that have such great potentials as to be able to destroy a planet, little realizing the very great unimportance of these things, and missing completely the importance of his soul. For some reason, Earth man, through his civilizations, seems to always get the emphasis upon the wrong side, for all these things will avail mankind nothing, lest he have spiritual understanding and development, for he will only destroy himself.

In creation, all things were created to be used for the good of mankind. Your creator intended for man to have all things necessary for his happiness. He made provision in all ways that man should have all things necessary and beyond for his well being find his peace of mind. But, he also gave man a free will, an opportunity to choose, for, lest man has free will and is faced with choice, he is only a robot. Therefore, man must choose wisely, he must see singly, he must search the truth. For man is dependent upon man and was created thus, so that man might work together as one and become as one, all equal in the sight of the creator. And man will climb the ladder over and over until this realization becomes a part of his being.

No man has the right to take the life of another or take from another, or live by the sweat of the brow of another. All men must be creative. The wasted energy and manpower in your civilization is appalling. If you were to break down into numbers the actual productive people of your planet, perhaps the small number would amaze you, and this, my friends, is not as it was intended by your creator. Many of these things must change, if your civilization is to become a civilization of people capable of joining in the great Brotherhood of Man that are joined together throughout space.

Yours is not the only planet in space that finds itself in this condition. There are many others in other systems. But, as man reaches the realization of what and who he is, and as he reaches out with his consciousness and grasps the importance of spiritual understanding, and of becoming a part of the Brotherhood of Man, he moves into a new phase of life, and he finds a great feeling of peace and serenity coming into his life and he begins to realize that he is now entering and finding that for which he has so long sought, and that he is now truly on the path of truth and understanding.

Long enough have I rambled, my friends. I leave you by extending my very greatest love, peace and understanding.

So be it. ♣
