Zalhem: Greetings to you, my beloved children, I am Zalhem.

Since it is the time of year when you celebrate the resurrection of this great Master, I should like to take a few moments of your time and talk about this man that you call Jesus.

His life from beginning to end was filled with trials and temptations. He faced all of the temptations and all of the trials that carnal man is subject to. He came to Earth to demonstrate to Earth people love and to show how this love should be expressed and how man, that is carnal man, should face all of his situations. And if you have observed His actions and reactions closely you will note that He always met every situation in love. Never did He use violence, either to protect Himself or others. Many times He could have done this, He could have allowed those about Him to use violence to protect Him, but never did He do this. His life was one of nonviolence, thus demonstrating to carnal man that violence can only bring about more violence.

He was well enough versed in the occult laws that He could have brought great harm to those who harmed Him, yet He did not and would not use this knowledge in this way. He wanted only to demonstrate love and tolerance and good will. Never did He allow hatred for His enemies to enter His mind. But rather He would ask for their forgiveness for He realized that they did not know what they were doing. They did not realize that they were only bringing more, destruction upon themselves for they did not understand the law.

The crucifixion and resurrection were the greatest demonstrations of His life. He suffered much through His trial at the hands of His enemies but He still did not condemn them or try to bring destruction upon them, which He could have done. He was intent on demonstrating to mankind the potential man has within him, and that what He did, all men can and must do. He demonstrated through the crucifixion the destruction of the carnal. The crucifixion is the destruction of the carnal and sooner or later all man must crucify the carnal, must put it to death and then resurrect it, change it to flesh divine. For in this state man controls the flesh. He can change its rate of vibration, bring it down into the vibration of the physical carnal body, yet he has complete control over it at that time or over the carnal and can step back and forth from the carnal to the divine, and this, my friends you all must do sooner or later.

This great Master was the first to demonstrate this among Man of Earth but all man must do this if he is to reach the higher levels. All of the things He did throughout His life were symbolic of what man can and must do. Each will do it in his or her own time. Some will be sooner and some will be later, but eventually these things must be conquered in order to reach man's potential.

Now, my friends, I leave you by extending to each of you my most sincere blessings, my deepest love and I ask that the blessings of the Brotherhood, may be bestowed upon each of you.

May you walk in peace, may you walk in peace. ✿
