Joseph: Good evening to you my friends. I am Joseph. It is my pleasure to come among you.

Since you are approaching the subject of healing. I should like to talk a little bit about this. In our density of life, as in others, we have our specialists, those who specialize in certain fields. We have our engineers, our men of the law, only they deal with universal law rather than man-made laws. We have specialists in all fields.

In your work with healing, you should learn the technique of visualization and of directing energies and all of the things that pertain to the healing arts. But keep in mind that some are better channels for this type of energy than are others. This is due to their experience in past lives. In your terms you would say that they are natural channels for this energy. Some have greater capacity than others the same as a small copper wire has less capacity for carrying electrical current as a larger wire. Those of you who have observed some of the healers in action have no doubt observed this.

Those who work in this field from other densities must channel their energies through someone that is of the same density as they are attempting to work in. In other words, for your particular density one of another density would need to channel this power through someone of your density.

Now I am not saying that you cannot create this power and energy, because you have this ability once it is developed. But those who have a greater knowledge in the field of energy and matter, are interested in helping people of your density. And when they have found a good channel for this energy, they attempt to develop and use this channel.

So as you work in this direction of healing, keep in mind that there are those of other densities who would like to help you and they will whenever they can. So you should, in your time of dedication, offer yourself as a channel for these energies and as you do this, you will be used according to your capacity to be used.

There are times when an individual is more receptive, more free-flowing, when they have less resistance, so to speak and the energies can be directed through them at these times with greater results.

Some have what you call a natural talent for this and who knows who might be discovered to be one of these? So be aware, be receptive, be non-resistant, but always discerning. Use your protections, keep your purpose, your motives high, and keep balance in all things and everything will work out to the benefit of all.

May each of you in your search for truth, for understanding, for wisdom, move rapidly along the Path. May all the Great Ones pour forth their blessing, their protection upon you.

May each of you find peace in your own hearts. May each of you become a willing servant to mankind. May you find harmony and peace in your life. May each of you come into a true understanding of universal love.

Peace, my beloved, peace, peace. ✨
